GERMANS DESERT
G. O. P. TO HELP
NOMINATE PRIEST

Democratic Candidate for Governorship Indorsed by Societies Having Membership of About 10,000.

SAY HE REPRESENTS
THEIR VIEWPOINT

Great Numbers Who Habitually Vote Republican Ticket Going Into Democratic Primary.

Fully 50 per cent of the German-American Republicans in St. Louis will enter the Democratic primary Aug. 5 to vote for former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest for the Democratic nomination for Governor, according to August Lingens, president of the German-American Citizens' League, a delegate body representing various German-American societies with a total membership of about 10,000.

Lingens presided last night at a meeting of about 400 persons, mostly of German birth or parentage, at Turner Hall, 1508 Chouteau avenue, which was addressed by Priest. Lingens said after a meeting of about 400 persons, mostly of German birth or parentage, at Turner Hall, 1508 Chouteau avenue, which was addressed by Priest. Lingens said after a meeting of about 400 persons, mostly of German birth or parentage, at Turner Hall, 1508 Chouteau avenue, which was addressed by Priest.

Will Enter Democratic Primary.
"To do so we will have to enter the Democratic primary. But you will be surprised at the number who will do so."

In presenting Priest, Lingens said that he would not apologize for the size of the crowd, which could have been larger, for it is not light and people who have worked all day and cannot have a glass of good cold beer in the evening to refresh them sometimes do not feel like going out to meetings.

Before yielding to the candidate he carefully explained that Republicans who wanted to help nominate Priest for Governor would have to call for Democratic ballots, told them how to mark the names of the gubernatorial candidates to insure a vote for Priest and advised them, if they did not care about the candidates for the other offices, just to cross out all the rest.

Candidate Vigorously Applauded.
Priest's speech, probably the most aggressive he has delivered during the present campaign, was well received, the audience applauding with especial vigor his threats of prohibition and the Ku Klux Klan.

Willings of the Republicans described by Lingens to walk out of their party primary into that of the other party in furtherance of a principle or purpose was fully exemplified in St. Louis in the primary of August 12, when such an invasion of the Democratic primary was accomplished in the interest of Senator Reed's re-election. Even Reed's manager had admitted the effectiveness of that invasion, while the manager of the opposing candidate charged that fully 30,000 Republicans had voted in the Democratic primary for the Senator.

Should the Republican drift to Priest, occur in St. Louis, as the German-Americans have announced, little reason exists to doubt that it will occur in rural counties where persons of German birth or parentage predominate, and a movement would upset the calculations of both Republican and Democratic officials.

Criticism His Opponents.
Early in his address Priest, who was the most part has paid little attention to his opponents, lashed out at them with vigor, though not in vain.

"One of my opponents is neither a lawyer nor a politician, but a man who is neither for nor against prohibition, but insists upon detroning the State Tax Commission in order to get a better deal for himself. He would be no more than a tax collector."

"That is a delusion, more piffle," he said. "The only way to lower taxes is by electing honest and efficient officials."

"One of my competitors have had more of the flesh pots of office and are trying by all the arts of equivocation and camou-

DELEGATION WILL VISIT
CAPITAL TO URGE LANDING OF GLOBE FLYERS HERE

St. Louisans Will Go to Washington Following Telegram Requesting Gen. Patrick to Include St. Louis in Itinerary of Airmen.

St. Louis' invitation to the American world flyers, to stop at this city on their way from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast next month, will be pressed by a delegation which will visit Washington, supplementing the telegram of invitation sent last night to Major-Gen. Mason M. Patrick, head of the Army air service.

The telegram to Gen. Patrick, sent after a dinner conference at Sunset Hill Country Club, read: "International Air Race here last year aroused tremendous interest in St. Louis territory. This territory is deeply interested in having world flyers stop in St. Louis on their westward flight. Field fully equipped to take care of planes. St. Louis territory feels its effort for aviation justice having world trip stop here. Failure to use St. Louis field is very discouraging to friends of aviation in this district. Will send delegation to present case."

Leaders Sign Telegrams.
The names signed were those of W. Palmer Clarkson, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Preston Sultan, president of the St. Louis Flying Club; W. Frank Carter, president of the St. Louis Air Board; E. F. Bush, president St. Louis Aero Corp.; Frank P. Glass, St. Louis Star; E. Lansing Ray, Globe-Democrat; George S. Johns, Post-Dispatch; Homer Bassford, Times; Joseph O'Neill, Louis P. Aice and Walter J. G. Neun, acting Mayor.

Carter and Bush are not out of the city, but their support of the movement is assured. Besides the other signers, Congressman Cleveland A. Newton of the Tenth District was present, and promised his co-operation in the work to be done in Washington.

Albert Bond Lambert, pioneer St. Louis aviation promoter, who was unable to attend last evening's conference, sent a dispatch to Gen. Patrick, bearing on a practical detail of the condition of Lambert-St. Louis Field, at Bridgeton, the landing place offered to the world flyers. Gen. Patrick, in a talk with Lambert last night, stated that "lots of grass seed" be used on the field. Lambert's telegram was: "Our flying field is in fine condition and crop of grass now covers the entire area. We also have additional fuel tanks and new machine shops. Sincerely hope St. Louis will be made a stop for the world flyers. Entire personnel and equipment of local air unit available. Congressman Newton sent this telegram to Secretary of War Weeks:

Friends of aviation Missouri and Illinois donated over $300,000 to prepare field and defray expenses International Air Meet St. Louis last year. This proves universal sentiment this district for preparation aerial defense. Entire territory urgently appeal world flyers stop here. Field abundantly equipped to fuel and supply ships.

Newton sent a similar message to Dwight F. Davis of St. Louis, Assistant Secretary of War, bespeaking his co-operation.

Acting Mayor Neun today sent the following telegram to Gen. Patrick:

The citizens of St. Louis would appreciate greatly if arrangements could be made whereby the world flyers could land in St. Louis on their flight across the United States. We have ample facilities, a splendid landing field and much interested. As Acting Mayor of this city I am speaking for all these people. Allow me to request that you have the world flyers come to St. Louis.

Tells of Air Meet Here.
Speakers at last evening's conference told of the work done by St. Louis in behalf of aviation, in the events of the past years and particularly in the holding of the international air meet last fall, for which the field in St. Louis County was bought and prepared. The central position of St. Louis on the map of the United States was also stressed.

Arrangements for the conference dinner were made by George S. Johns, editor of the editorial page of the Post-Dispatch.

The Wellston Chamber of Commerce last night voted to send a telegram to Gen. Patrick, according to the invitation for a visit of the world flyers, and setting forth the advantages of the field at Bridgeton as a landing place.

Others Favor Visit
OF WORLD FLYERS

Expressions of a number of St. Louisans, basing the city's invitation to the world flyers, are:

Hugh E. Wagner, president Million Population Club and Greater St. Louis Conference; St. Louis is one of the future great air ports of the world.

Dragged From Bed and Choked.

August J. Stahl, 49 years old, a bartender, of 2238A Nebraska avenue, was shot and killed by his wife, Minnie, 48, in the kitchen of their home at 2:10 a. m. today, following a quarrel that began when Stahl came home at 1:45 a. m. and demanded that his wife prepare him a warm supper.

Following the shooting, Mrs. Stahl turned the revolver over to Louis Barth, a neighbor, residing on the first floor at the same address, who escorted her to the home of her sister, Mrs. Alfred Tilley, 2248 Nebraska. There she was later arrested and taken to the Soudard Street Station, where she is held for the coroner.

Police and neighbors, investigating at the Stahl home, found Stahl's body in the bedroom of the three-room flat, where apparently he had staggered from the kitchen. Two bullets had taken effect in the right side of the jaw and in the back under the left shoulder blade. The weapon, with four empty chambers, was found on the ground where Barth said he threw it after Mrs. Stahl had given it to him.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Slight changes in the retail cost of food and clothing caused an increase of two-tenths of 1 per cent in the cost of living in the United States between May 15 and June 15, 1924, according to a survey just completed by the National Industrial Conference Board. Between July 1920, when the peak of the rise in the cost of living since 1914 was reached, and June, 1924, the cost of living decreased 20.9 per cent. The increase in the cost of living since July, 1914, was 61.7 per cent.

Decrease in cost of living on June 15, 1924, from average prices in July, 1920, is shown by the following percentages: Food, 35.2; shelter, 17.1; clothing, 14.8; fuel, 7.8; light, 22.4, and sundries, 5.9. Relative importance of these items in the family budget is: Food, 43.1; shelter, 17.7; clothing, 13.2; fuel, 3.7; light, 1.9, and sundries, 20.4.

From May to June 15 last food cost increased 7 per cent and clothing decreased 9 per cent.

The purchasing value of the dollar, based on the cost of living in June, 1924, was 61.8 cents, as contrasted with $1 in July, 1914.

THREE DEAD, 11 INJURED

RANGER, Tex., July 24.—Three persons are known to be dead, 11 injured are in a local hospital and three are missing following a fire which last night destroyed a half block of business buildings here, with property loss estimated at $1,000,000.

S. E. Taylor, manager of the Home Laundry, formerly with the First National Bank of Breckenridge, N. D. McKimmon, City Engineer, and Billie Wallace, 7, grandson of Mrs. Elma Craig, proprietor of the McCleskey House, which was destroyed, are those listed as dead.

The fire started in the McCleskey Hotel from a gas pocket formed in the building, according to belief of fire officials. The flames, seen first on the second floor, spread rapidly, threatening the entire business section.

Hundreds of citizens aided guests of the McCleskey Hotel and the Southland Hotel to escape. Many were removed from the hotels with ladders, while others jumped from second and third story windows.

None of the dead has been identified.

DEATH WEAPON WAS

Witness Asserts He Picked

1:30 A. M., a Few Hours
After the Murder.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Hawing to his line of "piling up a mountain of testimony" against Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold Jr., State Attorney Crowe today called many witnesses who testified to detailed facts and circumstances connected with the kidnapping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks.

Crowe was making good his announced intention of showing, by attempting to show, that the youths deserve no clemency for pleading guilty, as they would have been convicted anyhow.

Both defendants seemed to enjoy portions of the testimony. Leopold appeared slightly amused at the constraint of his former classmates from the University of Chicago law school, called to identify the typewriter upon which the ransom letter was written to Jacob Franks, father of the victim. Much of the morning testimony centered around this battered, rusty, disintegrated little Underwood machine.

Chisel Tossed From Auto.
The heavily-taped chisel, with which the life of young Franks was beaten out, was also introduced in evidence by Crowe.

"It is a thick tool, not more than eight or nine inches in length. The cutting end was wrapped in white adhesive tape, as a handle, the real handle being used as the weapon. That end bore blood stains, and some had touched the tape."

Bernard Hunt, a neighborhood night watchman, told of seeing the chisel tossed from a passing automobile about 1:30 o'clock in the morning on May 21, a few hours after the murder.

"There was fresh blood on the chisel when I picked it up," said Hunt. It was given to the court.

An interesting fact brought out by the defense today was that Elizabeth Sattler, a maid in the Leopold home, is still employed there, although she gave damaging testimony before the grand jury against her employer's son, and on the witness stand this morning she identified the typewriter and the remnants of the car upon which the boy's body was wrapped.

Still Employed by Leopold.
The defense cross-examined her just enough to show that she had not suffered in her employment by telling the truth.

A moment later a similar point was made in even more arresting fashion in the case of Sven Englund, chauffeur in the Leopold home. It was Englund's story to the police concerning the whereabouts of a certain automobile the night of the murder, which made the first hole in the boys' alibi.

The State's Attorney had just announced determined to raise the question when Englund contradicted that statement that they had been in Nathan's Willys-Knight sport model the night of the murder. When Loeb heard that Englund had declared the car was in the garage that night, he asked to see to Crowe, and his confusion followed Leopold's coming on top of Loeb's.

Nevertheless, Englund testified today he was still employed by the Leopolds.

"Consider the Steel the Peace."
Testimony that Leopold and Loeb played bridge for 5 and 10 cents a point was given by Leon Mandel, a son of a member of the firm of Mandel Eyer. He said he could not stand that pace, and while he played several times with them they made side bets in which they lost.

RANGER, Tex., July 24.—Three persons are known to be dead, 11 injured are in a local hospital and three are missing following a fire which last night destroyed a half block of business buildings here, with property loss estimated at $1,000,000.

S. E. Taylor, manager of the Home Laundry, formerly with the First National Bank of Breckenridge, N. D. McKimmon, City Engineer, and Billie Wallace, 7, grandson of Mrs. Elma Craig, proprietor of the McCleskey House, which was destroyed, are those listed as dead.

The fire started in the McCleskey Hotel from a gas pocket formed in the building, according to belief of fire officials. The flames, seen first on the second floor, spread rapidly, threatening the entire business section.

Hundreds of citizens aided guests of the McCleskey Hotel and the Southland Hotel to escape. Many were removed from the hotels with ladders, while others jumped from second and third story windows.

None of the dead has been identified.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Slight changes in the retail cost of food and clothing caused an increase of two-tenths of 1 per cent in the cost of living in the United States between May 15 and June 15, 1924, according to a survey just completed by the National Industrial Conference Board. Between July 1920, when the peak of the rise in the cost of living since 1914 was reached, and June, 1924, the cost of living decreased

COURT RULING ELIMINATES THE CROSS-EXAMINATION

Judge Caverly Holds That Corroboration of State's Testimony Is Unnecessary Where Facts Are Admitted.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The nature of the duel between prosecution and defense in the Leopold-Loeb case was made plain today by the first day's proceedings.

The State wants hanging and the defense is trying to get off with prison sentences. Undoubtedly the defense would accept life terms without a murmur—say, with a sigh of relief.

Notwithstanding the plea of guilty, State's Attorney Crowe went ahead with his evidence yesterday almost as if he had to make a case. But not quite. Judge Caverly held that all the facts might be shown, but that corroboration was unnecessary where the facts were admitted. This allowed one witness to suffice where three or four would otherwise have gone over the ground—and it virtually eliminated cross-examination.

State May Finish This Week.
Crowe said last night he expected to finish this week. Darrow said the defense would require about three days. The end of the hearing is anticipated by the end of next week.

By the calm father and almost fainting mother of Robert Franks, and by other witnesses, the State yesterday established the fact and date of the boy's disappearance and the recovery of the body. The ransom letter was put in. Details of the murder were plain, such as the name of the victim, the name of the automobile in which the crime was committed were shown by witnesses.

The coroner's physician stated that death resulted from suffocation due to gagging, in conjunction with blows on the head. The skull was not fractured, and the doctor left the impression that the gag was the chief factor in the homicide.

Darrow to Exhaust Resources.
Darrow, asked last night if the defense contemplated further moves in event of Judge Caverly imposing the death penalty, said: "You don't suppose I'd see anything hanging as long as anything on earth remains that I could do to prevent it, do you?"

He previously had made plain that the youth of the defendants would be strongly urged as an argument against hanging.

"The hanging of two boys of this age on a plea of guilty would be unprecedented," he told the Court.

Throughout the day Loeb, contrary to expectations, appeared the less concerned of the defendants, listening intently to lawyers and witnesses, and frequently whispering to defense attorneys and to Leopold. While Loeb frequently changed position to see or hear better, Leopold, virtuously motionless, his eyes downcast much of the time. The impression deepens that of this pair, Leopold is the thinker, Loeb the youth of action.

We and Dry Alternately.
"One of my competitors is wet in wet territory, but in dry territory, but seems to be personally wet all the time. Shame on a man who will see that the law is enforced when it applies to his fellow-restraint which he does not practice."

"In a letter to the Post-Dispatch today a man asks what I can do about prohibition if I am elected. 'My first work if elected will be to recommend to the Legislature the repeal of the iniquitous and inequitable State prohibition law, which far outdistances the Volstead Act. For I do not stand in favor of any act that was sponsored by the late lamented Dr. Shupp. He stood like a master with a red over the heads of members of the Legislature and compelled passage of that law. Behind him were an army of prohibition advocates, a force of fanatics threatening all sorts of dire things against the legislators if the measure wasn't passed. Yet within a year thereafter the Association Against Prohibition, of which I am the head, with the approval of the Attorney-General, bought liquor from one close to blood to Shupp. We bought all morphine and other things that deprive men of their mentality. Then a man who now is a candidate for Attorney-General demanded that we turn the liquor over to him. We did and it never has been heard of since. There were no indictments."

Wholly Refused to National.
Priest's second reference evidently was to Gus O. Nations, a Federal prohibition officer at the time of the exposure, and now a candidate for Attorney-General.

These persons who thought that prohibition is good for the make have sold out of champagne but don't want a workingman to have beer, Priest asserted.

"Ford may make cheap machines, but he can't make cheap officers," declared the speaker, referring to the automobile manufacturer.

DELEGATION TO VISIT CAPITAL TO URGE LANDING OF FLYERS HERE

America, and for that reason should be visited by the round-the-world flyers as they complete one of the most important feats in the development of aeronautics. St. Louis is in the center of the United States and a logical stopping point in such a flight. It has a well-equipped flying field which can supply all the facilities which the flyers will need in the completion of their journey. It is not to see how the Army officials can refuse to give St. Louis this deserved recognition.

Samuel Plant, president of the Merchants' Exchange, I think the invitation to the flyers should be pressed by our civic and business leaders. The Merchants' Exchange, I feel sure, will be heartily in favor of doing everything possible to have the flyers sent this way, and to honor and entertain them on their stay.

F. W. A. Veep, former president of the Chamber of Commerce, said: "The position of St. Louis as the geographical center of the United States, and its close proximity to Scott Field, should make it an ideal landing place for the flyers on the last leg of their homeward journey. Even if the boys had already been decided, I feel it should be changed to give St. Louis the recognition it deserves in view of the progress of aeronautics here during the past year. The flyers are well known to the many people of St. Louis who appreciate an arrangement whereby the planes would land at the St. Louis field."

M. E. Singleton, president of the St. Louis Life Insurance Co., said: "St. Louis, by all means, should be a stop for the round-the-world flyers. It is the only city in the world where the people of St. Louis have improved their air facilities so that they realize the great importance of aerial navigation. The round-the-world flyers should land at St. Louis because they realize that their feat is a wonderful step forward in the science of aviation."

Loeb Shows Some Reaction.
Leopold and Richard Loeb watched the sorrowful parents of their boy victim on the witness stand as they told with tear-moist eyes the story of their son's disappearance and heard husky voices whisper affirmative answers to the State's proffered exhibits of the little fellow's clothing.

On the part of the paradoxically brilliant, but criminal young defendants, there was no display of emotion.

Leopold, motionless, and with an expression of only casual interest on his features, watched the mother of Robert Franks with scarce the blinking of an eye, and Loeb, his companion, gave little outward sign of perturbation.

Throughout the day, however, Loeb showed some reaction to the proceedings. He came into court with a start and a look of nervousness and frequently licked his lips or picked at threads on his sleeve.

Loeb leaned forward in his chair; Leopold slouched down on his shoulder blades.

In a brief pause, which followed the closing of the prosecutor's statement, when he demanded the youths pay the death penalty, the defendants whispered to each other words afterwards described by Loeb as "really funny."

After hearing a detailed recital of the fully laid plans, their execution and the finding of the Franks boy's body in a water-filled culvert beneath a railroad crossing, in a desolate outlying section, once described by Leopold as an ideal spot for ornithological field work, the young men left the courtroom jauntily. As they entered an elevator to return to their guarded cells, they laughed audibly at each other's witticisms.

Shupp resigning under compulsion, said the speaker.

"I shall recommend to the Legislature the repeal of all laws threatening the freedom of my fellow citizens."

Priest ridiculed the Ku Klux Klan.

"Why, it isn't a single word in its ritual that is American," said he.

"This Imperialistic invisible empire even is ruled by an Imperial wizard, which defined means 'male witch.' The idea of a male witch leading American citizens to high ideals."

Some Klansmen Merely Deluded.
"Not all klansmen are bad. Some of them are merely deluded. They have been sold a gold brick. They have been swindled. The Klan is a twin for the Antislavery League, both of which estimate intelligence of the American people at about that of a 13-year-old boy, who is easily imposed upon."

If people want better laws, let them elect better lawmakers, said Priest. If they want better enforcement of law, let them elect better law-enforcing officials. If they want punishment of crime, let them take their troubles to grand juries and courts and insist upon their legal remedies.

He also attacked prohibition by the Klan of the foreign born, the negro, the Catholic and the Jew.

The candidate declared that prohibition had been fastened upon the people by industrial barons who contributed $25,000,000 to "fasten these bonds upon you in much the manner in which the barons of those days bought negroes in Africa."

Prohibitionists Are Assailed.
These persons who thought that prohibition is good for the make have sold out of champagne but don't want a workingman to have beer, Priest asserted.

"Ford may make cheap machines, but he can't make cheap officers," declared the speaker, referring to the automobile manufacturer.

law school, were called to tell what they knew of the typewriter they had seen in the Leopold home. The best they could do was to say the machines they saw were "portables."

Mandel, a plump, dark young man, deeply affected, also told of translating the works of Aretino, a writer who described medieval sex perversion.

In this connection it would be well to state now that a vast deal of whispering has been done about this case which apparently has no basis in fact. The testimony of the coroner's physician reports that Robert Franks had been mistreated.

So far as can be ascertained, the State's Attorney has no evidence of degeneracy of any character, except in so far as the reading of such literature as Aretino's works might be considered evil.

Council in Brief Conference.
Court was called to order at 10:10 a. m., after a brief preliminary conference in chambers between counsel.

The State's Attorney, regrouped his assistants and alienists, bringing Dr. William Krone to the front so he could watch every fleeting expression of the defendants.

Crowe resumed the almost routine business of putting his case on record. Andrew Russo, told of finding the letter of instructions addressed to Jacob Franks. It was in the rack where the telephone blanks are kept, and had been carried around on the train 10 days after the murder.

As has been told, the plan of the kidnapers was to direct Franks to park a certain train, on which he would find the letter telling him where to throw off a cigar box containing $10,000 ransom money.

Franks was willing to comply, but before he received the instructions, learned that his son was dead.

Dr. Emil Deutsch, an eye specialist, who prescribed for Leopold the glasses which he lost near the scene of the crime, was called to identify the glasses. It was the finding of these glasses, later traced to their owner, which led to the arrest of the youths. He said he prescribed for Leopold for "a minor degree of astigmatism."

Thomas McWilliams, manager of the Morrison Hotel, where Loeb registered as "Morton D. Ballard," testified to turning over to the Chicago police a letter from the automobile renting agency addressed to "Ballard" and placed on his desk by employees of the hotel. He had not opened the letter and Crowe, therefore, sent for Morgan Collins, superintendent of Chicago's Police Department, to whom McWilliams delivered the letter.

David Barish, who testified yesterday that Loeb was in his delicatessen store May 9, when "Morton D. Ballard," impersonated by Leopold, was hiring a car, was recalled. He said the telephone number of his place was Calumet 4655, the number given by "Ballard" as that of his reference, "Frank Mason."

Frank B. Tuttle, clerk in a Trenton Hotel, was asked to identify mail addressed to "Morton D. Ballard."

Maid Questioned About Typewriter.
Elizabeth Sattler, Leopold maid, identified an Underwood portable typewriter, which she said "resembled" a machine she had seen in the room of her employer's son.

She added she had seen Nathan Jr. use such a machine "many times." The Underwood portable offered by the State as an exhibit was the one recovered in a park lagoon, following the arrest of the youths.

She was questioned also about the storing place of the automobile robes in the Leopold home.

A fuzzy greenish and badly charred robe, said by the State to have been the remnants of the blood-stained robe which the two boys attempted to destroy by soaking it in gasoline and burning it on the lake front, was offered in evidence. The witness said she had seen a similar robe in the Leopold home. She was cross-examined briefly by the defense counsel.

He was on his way to have his watch fixed—"I've got the watch with me," he interjected, slapping his pocket, when he saw the body inside the pipe. It was lying face down, in about a foot of water. It looked alert, confident. Tony smiled at his father and mother, cheerily to his uncle and brother.

Police regulations were so well that 50 seats in the courtroom which would readily accommodate the jury were given this trial.

"Good Morning Pop," Loeb said into court at 10:32. Leopold, the sad little smile with which he always comes in; Loeb, as usual, looked alert, confident. Tony smiled at his father and mother, cheerily to his uncle and brother.

Police regulations were so well that 50 seats in the courtroom which would readily accommodate the jury were given this trial.

Today laid the entry before transformed the courtroom into a Turkish bath yesterday.

A general atmosphere of torments prevailed prior to opening of court. The public, parents, learning the facts, trying to get in, remained at 9:30 only about a score of spectators were scattered in the meager seating space and yesterday, most of them were young women.

There was a diversion when deputies brought in the State's exhibits. These included floor boards of the automobile in which the murder was committed, and from which the body was taken. The State's exhibit, a five-rack steel filing cabinet, was left in the room.

Relatives of the defendants, Nathan Leopold Jr. and defendants' elder brother, Jacob Loeb, an uncle, and a cousin, were seated in the front of the courtroom yesterday. During the trial, they were seen to be in the room.

Carl Uving, a chauffeur for Mrs. Arthur Spiegel, a neighbor of the Leopolds, said Dick Loeb driving south on Ellis avenue about 5 p. m. May 21. A man in the rear seat of the car was not recognized by Uving, but he and Loeb waved greetings to each other.

Uving's attention was called to this 19 days later by August W. Spiegel, son of his employer.

"It did not strike you as important until then?" asked Bachrach of defense counsel.

"You remember, though, that you were at the school at 3:45 p. m.?" "Yes sir."

The attorney had Uving trace his movements of the day in detail and then elicited the information he saw Loeb driving south of Ellis avenue at Forty-ninth street, about 4:30 p. m.

On redirect questioning Crowe drew an objection from the defense and then elicited the information May 31 conversation with Spiegel. Judge Caverly let it go in. It turned out that Uving had thought then the accusations against Loeb were "funny."

"I told Spiegel I saw Loeb driving a car that day and it wasn't the one described in the newspaper," said the witness.

Further objections by the defense stopped this testimony at that point.

George C. Fry, ticket seller for the Pullman Co. told of selling a ticket to Michigan City in Pullman, May 22. He could not recall who bought the ticket.

Proceedings Speeded Up.
There was a noticeable speeding up of proceedings today. Crowe, with the assent of the defense,

ONE-DAY SALE~ BEFORE STOCK-TAKING

(No Mail or Phone Orders Filled)

THIS event comes as a climax to our July Clearing and is one of the most important in our sales calendar. Every department groups sample lines and odds and ends, and marks them at prices that insure quick disposal. Everyone should take advantage of the extraordinary values offered.

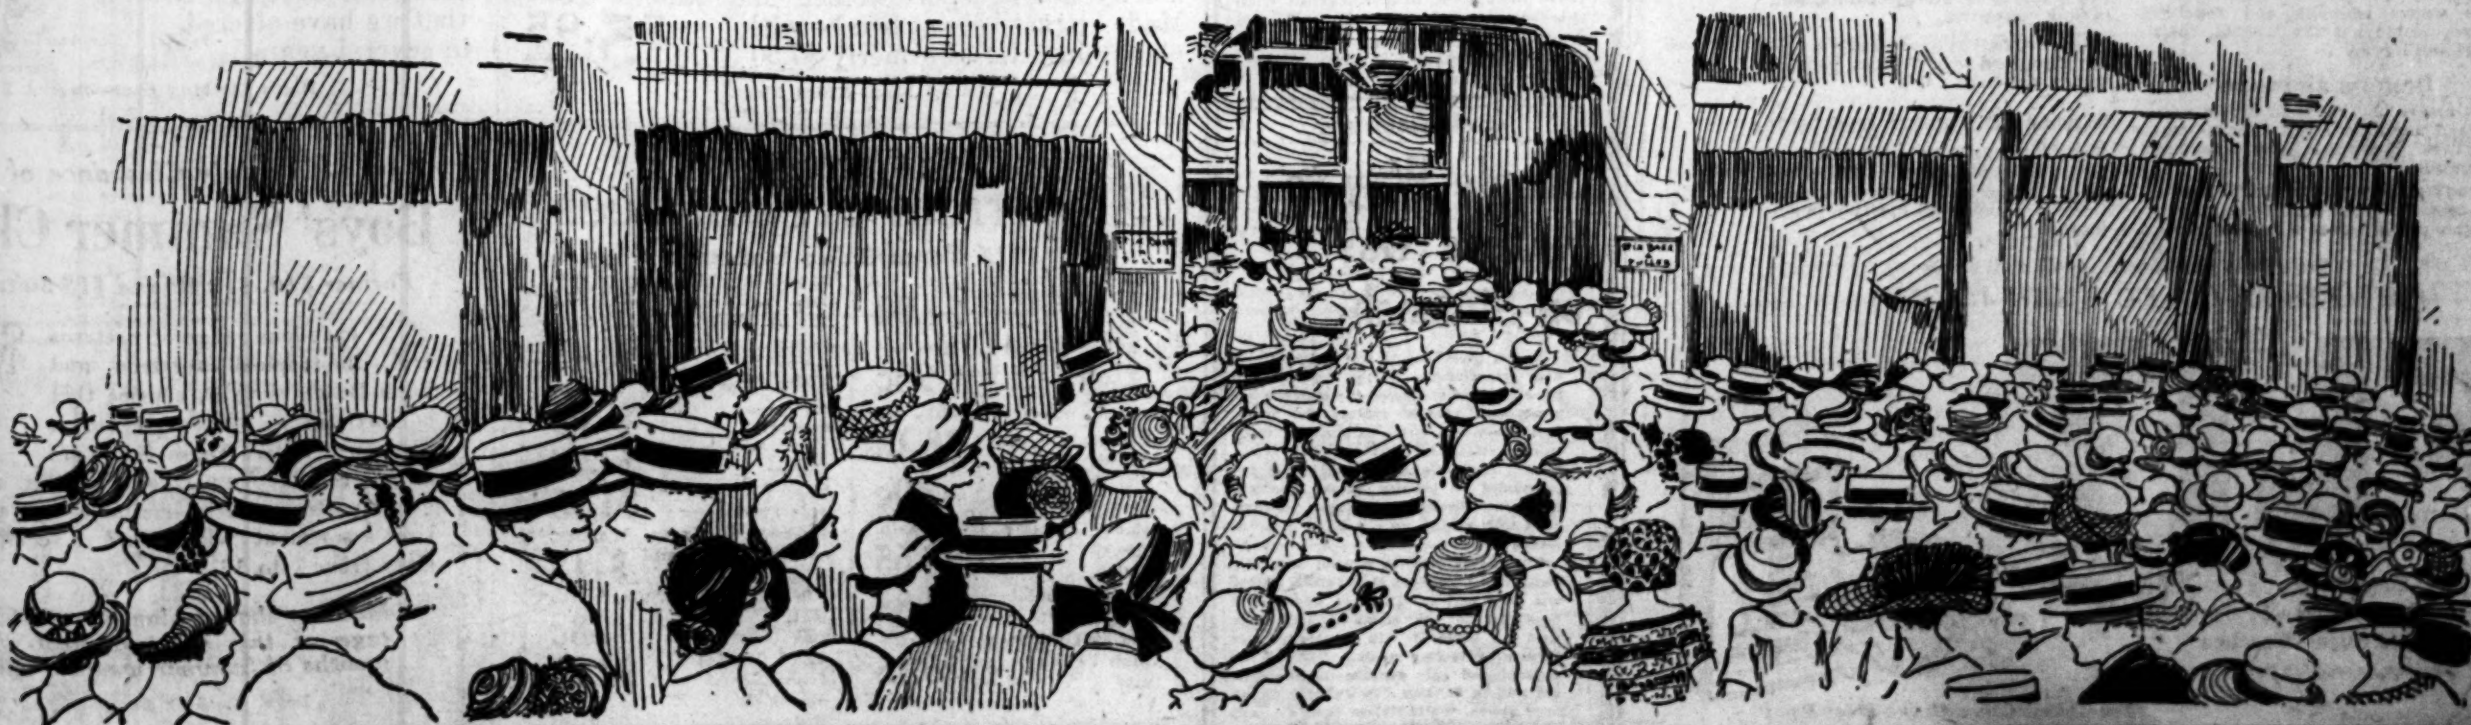

We desire to emphasize that the lots are small, that many of the most desirable will be exhausted shortly after the store opens, and naturally the first comers will have the best selections. We therefore urge our customers to be here early Friday to secure the full advantages this exceptional selling occasion presents.

The nature of the Sale makes it impossible to give descriptions as the offerings are so numerous and varied that such details would create demands beyond our power to fulfill—however there are many attractive features for practically every need. Come prepared to find marvelous values—you will not be disappointed.

Go to the department in which you are interested; look for the merchandise displayed with One-Day Sale Tags. In every instance the values are sure to exceed your expectations. Then make a trip through the entire store, for every department participates, presenting so many desirable offerings that it will take a full day to dispose of them.

For example: The ready-to-wear departments will feature charming frocks and wraps at amazingly low prices; the Downstairs Store shoes will be marked exceedingly low; yard goods, linens, housewares, men's and boys' clothing—all will have values that are sure to meet with the most enthusiastic approval.

Our One-Day Sales are semi-annual occasions, and those who have attended in the past will need no further invitation. This event's offerings fully justify their past reputation for extreme value-giving. The selling will begin promptly at 8:30 a. m.

DEATH LIST IN "MOVIE" PANIC MAY REACH 30

30 Children Killed in Rush From Vera Cruz Theater—50 Injured.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, July 24.—The death list from the fire and panic in the Esclava Theater in Vera Cruz last night may reach 30 or more, according to advices from that city today. At least 20 children were killed and 50 other persons were injured and the latest dispatches say that more than 10 of the injured children are likely to die.

The fire broke out about 9 o'clock. It was followed by a general stampede for the doors, especially from the cheaper seats in the gallery, in which the children were trampled down. The cause is thought to have been the throwing of a cigarette by someone into the box containing the projecting machine and operator, where the blaze originated.

The principal hospital in Vera Cruz, where the injured were taken was surrounded by troops all night to keep away the crowd of mothers seeking their children. The stevedores' union of Vera Cruz has undertaken to give the child victims burial.

ENDS LIFE WHEN ACCUSED BY WIFE OF MISCONDUCT

62-Year-Old United Railways Motorman Was Rebuked on Story of 14-Year-Old Stepdaughter.

Charlton Boyles, 62 years old, a United Railways motorman, ended his life today by swallowing poison in his home, 7097 Minnesota avenue, after his wife, Catherine, accused him of misconduct with her 14-year-old daughter by a former marriage.

Police were called to the home
by neighbors, who became alarmed at Mrs. Boyles' hysterical actions.
At first she declared nothing had happened and said Boyles was "out for a walk." Policemen found him in an upstairs room, however, and he was rushed to hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Mrs. Boyles said her daughter,
May Healer, told her today that her stepfather had mistreated her several times. The wife then bitterly rebuked her husband and declared him to leave and never return, threatening to have him arrested if he remained. Boyles went upstairs and took his life.

KINNEY GOES TO ATLANTIC CITY

State Senator Michael Kinney, who was wounded by an assailant
June 3, and who recently left St.
John's Hospital, has gone to Atlantic City, accompanied by Mrs. Kinney. He does not plan to return for the primary Aug. 5.

His wound kept him from attending the Democratic National Convention to which he was a delegate.
Kinney has sent out letters soliciting support for Senator Carter
M. Buford, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant-Governor. He has not declared himself in favor of any particular candidate for Governor.

Shortly before Kinney left St.
Louis, his relatives said he would make no statement as to his previous declaration that he believed Hammie Shane, escaped inmate of the City Sanatorium, shot him.
Shane was found recently in Hayti, Mo., behaving with apparent sanity and denying any knowledge of the Kinney shooting.

ON HIS OWN RECOGNIZANCE

Federal Home Sales Manager Not Required to Give Bond on Fraud Charge.

Following a conference with postal inspectors yesterday, John J.
Weising, sales manager of the defunct Federal Home Building Corporation, was released on his own recognizance, to answer at any time he is wanted on a warrant charging him with using the mails to defraud prospective home builders. Christian W. Beck, president of the corporation, and E. J. Barrett, vice president, the two other officers charged in Federal indictments earlier in the week, appeared before United States Commissioner Atkins, and each gave a bond of $5000.

The three men are also under indictment in the State court under charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, in connection with the failure of the company and the resultant loss of about $250,000 to 230 of its contract holders. Their trial has been set for Aug. 4.

Simple Way to Relieve Gas on Stomach

Nearly everybody is troubled at times with excessive gas in the stomach and bowels. In many cases the stomach up-sets and presses against the heart, causing intense pain, palpitation, difficulty breathing or other annoying symptoms. As a rule, these attacks are accompanied by burning in the stomach, headache, dizziness, bloating, drowsiness after eating, or a general nervous feeling.

The easiest way to prevent such distress is to take Epsa Gas Tablets before and after eating. They are wonderfully beneficial to the stomach, and when used as directed will generally give permanent, lasting results. "Epsa," the original and only genuine Gas Tablets, are sold in St. Louis by Judge & Deigh Drug Store, Wolff-Willson Drug Co. and all leading druggists. Price $1.50 everywhere. Distributors & Exporters Co., Mrs.
San Francisco.

Own this complete Oldsmobile-Six Sedan at average open car price

If you have around $1100
to spend for an automobile,
you can now enjoy a fine Oldsmobile Six Sedan with four-door body by Fisher.
Here's how this body is built—

Thick door pillars run solidly from floor to roof—
the frames are all mortise-wedged, glued, screwed and bolted. Four wide doors admit you to an interior made beautiful and complete by velour upholstery,
satin silvered fittings,
heater, dome light, door
locks, window curtains,
cowl ventilator and transmission lock.

Like the Fisher body, every other feature of Oldsmobile Six is of first quality. The 40-horsepower "six" engine with its pressure feed lubrication system has no equal in any similarly priced car.
It has Delco electrical equipment, the finest clutch, the best known chassis lubrication system.

The day after it was discovered

BEDBUGS are disposed of quickly and effectively by spraying with FLIT.

FLIT spray penetrates cracks and crevices where bedbugs and roaches breed, destroying the insects, their eggs and larvae.

Destroys All Insects

FLIT clears the house in a few minutes of mosquitoes and disease-bearing flies. It is clean, easy to use and harmless.

Spraying FLIT on garments kills moths.
It destroys their eggs and the tiny worms called larvae which eat holes.

Try FLIT in your home. At all drug stores

PLEA FOR CONDEMNED MAN SENT TO COURT BY AIR MAIL

Supreme Court Justice Grants Isaac Wolfgang Week in Which to Docket Appeal.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 24.—As associate Justice McKenna of the Supreme Court today granted Isaac Wolfgang, held under death sentence at the San Quentin prison, California, one week in which to docket an appeal for a review of his conviction on a murder charge.

Under the order of Justice McKenna it will be necessary for Wolfgang to raise $25, the filing fee, and docket his case by July 31. Should the appeal be docketed counsel for Wolfgang can then come before the court in October with a motion for permission to proceed with the appeal without consent of his client. If the court grants such a motion, the filing fee will be returned.

Papers in the case were rushed across the continent to Washington by air mail. They disclosed that counsel, instead of complying with a writ granted by the Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court for docketing an immediate appeal here, sought an extension until Nov. 1 in which to file appeal. Request was made to appeal without expense to Wolfgang.

URGES VACATIONISTS TO BE INOCULATED AGAINST TYPHOID

Health Commissioner Starkloff today issued a warning to vacationists, urging them to take advantage of the City Health Department's offer of free serum for immunization from typhoid before departing on outing trips. The city is comparatively free from the disease, he said, but the history of these recent cases shows that the patients, all young men, spent much time on the Meramec River previous to the development of the malady. This, Dr. Starkloff says, indicates the danger of infection is prevalent there and in other localities frequented by campers and cottagers. Not only may the vacationists become infected, he pointed out, but they may constitute a public menace by returning and carrying the disease back to their families.

PRESIDENT AT WORK ON SPEECH

Acceptance Address to Be Like Message to Congress.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 24.—With notification ceremonies for President Coolidge exactly three weeks distant, the Republican presidential nominee began work today on the address he will make at that time, sounding the keynote of the party's national campaign.

Much of the material for the address has been in process of selection for some time and the immediate task before the President is the drafting of an outline of the speech. The method of work determined upon is similar to that followed by him in writing his first message to Congress, and the form of the address to be delivered here Aug. 14 is expected to be somewhat like that of the congressional message. Governmental economy and reduction of taxes are to be the foremost subjects treated, with the whole address primarily devoted to an exposition of the party's record.

SINGS WAY OUT OF CELL

Radio Fans Hear Pennsylvania Convict—Get His Parole.
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—The sweet singing of a sentimental ballad by an Eastern penitentiary convict and broadcast from a local radio station, won a parole for Convict S-1412, who had three years more to serve on a bandit charge. The name of the convict was withheld.

Several months ago musically-inclined convicts broadcast a concert from the penitentiary through station WIP. Hardly had C-1412 finished when the penitentiary telephone became busy with requests for the identity of the man. Many letters were received and a lawyer, who interested himself in the case through the convicts singing, and others succeeded in obtaining a

THE NEW VACUUM CUP A B C WASHING MACHINE

Come in and see this wonderful Washer. Look at the three big vacuum cups that force the hot, soapy suds back and forth through your clothes as gently as you would do with your own hands. Note the big copper tub—you can wash 8 big bed sheets in it at a time. See how the bottom is corrugated to help make the washing quicker. Turn the Washer on and notice how quietly and smoothly it runs—how easy it is to operate—how strongly it is built. Look at the big wringer which locks in 16 different positions—and feel the soft cushioned rolls—they won't break buttons.

Notice how safe the whole machine is to use as all moving parts are enclosed.

If you wish, you can have it with a gas burner on it to heat the water right in the tub.

It costs only a few pennies an hour to run it. Our terms are so low you can hardly afford not to own one. Just think—only $5.00 Down

CONSPIRACY BACK OF SUIT TO DISBAR HIM, LAWYER SAYS

Charles P. Noell Asserts Action Was Instigated by Railroads, Particularly the Big Four.

DEPOSITIONS FOR THE DEFENSE TAKEN

Witness He Is Charged With Sending Away Denies Statements on Which Petition Is Based.

Charles P. Noell, at a deposition hearing yesterday in the suit to disbar him from practice as a lawyer, contended the suit was the outgrowth of a conspiracy concocted by railroads, principally the Big Four. His counsel declared that during the course of his practice in the St. Louis courts, since 1912, he has obtained a total of approximately $1,000,000 in judgments for clients in damage suits against railroads. Of this, $200,000 was against the Big Four, it was stated. So a scheme was patched to put Noell out of business, according to his version.

The hearing was in the law office of former Circuit Judge William T. Jones, who is serving as special commissioner in the disbarment suit, which was instituted by the Committee on Grievances of the Bar Association. The committee is represented by Attorney Charles P. Williams, while former Judge O'Neil Ryan and Randolph Laughlin are attorneys for Noell, who has been active as a damage suit lawyer. It was explained that he represents several organizations of railroad employees, through which he has obtained many cases.

Members of Committee Heard.

Members of the Committee on Grievance were examined by Noell's counsel in an effort to find out who instigated the disbarment proceedings. They said the matter was called to their attention by former United States District Attorney Charles A. Houts, local attorney for the Big Four, and Walter L. Brady, a former employee in Noell's office.

Houts complained that last December Noell succeeded in sending away a material witness in a damage suit. The witness, Ed. Frederick, had been brought here from Terre Haute, Ind., to testify for the Big Four in a damage suit in which Noell was attorney for the plaintiff. The committee personally had no knowledge concerning the allegations in the petition, it was testified. The members who gave depositions were Robert L. McLaran, chairman; Fred L. Williams, George P. Dougherty and A. J. Goodbar.

To disprove the charge of witness tampering Noell put Frederick on the stand for his deposition. Frederick testified that he left the city voluntarily, and the attorney had nothing to do with his absence at the trial. Frederick, incidentally, declared that an agent of the Big Four unceremoniously forced him to accompany him to this city to attend the damage suit trial, further that the agent tried to compel him to change his testimony in a deposition and swear falsely "When I told him I did not want to go to jail for telling a lie," said the witness. "He told me that the Big Four would not let me go anywhere. He also promised I would receive $1000 and a new suit of clothes."

Client of Noell Heard.

Furman E. West, 5655 Maple avenue, an attorney, testified he employed Noell to represent him in a damage suit against the Big Four and that agents of the road later induced him to settle the case "behind the attorney's back" because they said Noell was a "crooked lawyer." The witness stated that Brady, who worked for Noell, was very active in the campaign against his former employer. West suffered the loss of his left arm in a railroad accident. He said he settled the case for $4000, and that Noell later was forced to sue him and the Big Four for his fee under a contract.

Noell contends that Brady, who is also a lawyer, was "planted" in his office by the Big Four as a spy to obtain inside information relative to his private business. By this method it was hoped by the conspirators to destroy him, he avers. His counsel took occasion to say that they do not charge the Bar Association with the alleged conspiracy. So far as the association is concerned the suit was filed in good faith, the defense conceded.

Thomas J. Cole, an attorney associated with Charles H. Brady, who is out of the city, denied on the stand, that the Big Four was in any conspiracy to ruin Noell.

Family Reunites After 45 Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 24.—For the first time in 45 years Mrs. E. M. Roberts met her three brothers and a sister yesterday at a family reunion in Dooley's Mill, Boone County, Mo. The four children were separated 45 years ago at the death of the father. At the direction of a guardian they were placed with relatives in Callaway and Boone counties. Besides Mrs. Roberts those attending the reunion are Mrs. J. W. Roberts, Kansas City; Mrs. Ida M. Nichols, Ashland, Mo.; J. W. Roberts, Little Rock, Ark.; the Rev. J. L. Roberts, Moberly, Mo., and T. K. Roberts, Mexico, Mo.

DAVIS GETS HOPEFUL REPORTS FROM MAINE

Candidates for Governorship and Senatorship Confer With Presidential Nominee.

CALLS HIMSELF A REAL JEFFERSONIAN

Large Part of Acceptance Speech to Be Devoted to Indictment of G. O. P. Record.

Jefferson's Principles

By the Associated Press.

DARK HARBOR, Me., July 24.—AM a real Jeffersonian Democrat," John W. Davis said yesterday in commenting on an article referring to him as a Jeffersonian Democrat. "I personally think Jefferson was the greatest political thinker this country has produced and I expect to die in that faith."

"If Jefferson's principles are true, and I think they are, then they remain true even with changing times. Their application may change, but they do not."

The political conference today was the second the Democratic presidential nominee had arranged since his arrival here last Saturday. His first was with Homer S. Cummings, National Committee-man from Connecticut, who gave gratifying reports to Davis on the prospects in Connecticut, New Hampshire and other sections of New England. Cummings expressed the belief that the appearance in these states of Gov. Smith of New York in behalf of the national ticket would be decidedly helpful.

Before greeting his visitors today Davis spent several hours in the studio of his host, Charles Dana Gibson, continuing work on his acceptance speech and clearing up a batch of correspondence.

Speech Taking Shape.
The acceptance speech is rapidly taking rough form and while the candidate is withholding intimation of its contents it is understood that a major portion of it will be devoted to an indictment of the record of the Republican administration.

Davis is making a thorough study of this record with special reference to scandals in public office, to foreign policy, the treating of pressing domestic problems and the handling of tariff-tax questions.

While his campaign plans still are held in abeyance his present thought is to select certain important cities for the delivery of perhaps a score or more of set speeches, with a cross-roads campaign avoided as too great a tax for physical endurance.

"A Real Jeffersonian."
Asked today about a statement in the Nation that he is a Jeffersonian Democrat, the nominee said he admitted it and that consequently it would not be necessary to press that to proof.

"I am a real Jeffersonian Democrat," he said. "I personally think that Jefferson was the greatest political thinker this country has produced and I expect to die in that faith."

"If Jefferson's principles are true, and I think they are, then they remain true even with changing times. Their application may change, but they do not."

An offer of an Oregon wildcat was made to Davis today by two men who telegraphed him from a point in Massachusetts. They said they had observed that he was physically fit to fight his weight in these animals and that they would be glad to send him one if he would advise them of a shipping destination. This is only one of the usual crop of like offers that come to presidential candidates. Davis' mail also has contained many me-

DAVIS DISMISSES DEAN OF KANSAS U. MEDICAL SCHOOL

Action Taken Over Chancellor's Protest—Another Man Ousted Here at Ku Klux Klan Work.

Lawrence, Kan., July 24.—The dismissal of John Shea as superintendent of buildings and grounds of Kansas University by Gov. Davis and the State Board of Administration yesterday was followed by the announcement of the board also had dismissed Dr. M. T. Snyder as dean of the school of medicine. The two announcements came as a surprise to the members of the university faculty and the people of Lawrence.

Shea stated yesterday that Gov. Davis said to him: "I do not want his dismissal."

to become involved in a fight with the Klan." The dismissal of Dr. Snyder, announcement of which was made from Topeka, has caused speculation here. Dr. Snyder has been dean of the school of medicine for years.

The fact that Dr. Snyder should be dismissed over the protest of Chancellor Lindsey and, apparently without the chancellor's knowledge is puzzling to many.

Shea also is reported to have been dismissed over the chancellor's protest. Chancellor Lindsey is on his way to Colorado.

Gov. Davis and the Board of Administration had demanded the resignation of Snyder, and Chancellor Lindsey had flatly refused to consider either his resignation or

TEN KILLED WHEN FAST TRAIN HITS PICNIC TRUCK

Ten Others Injured in Accident Near New York Central Station at Oak Harbor, O.

By the Associated Press.

OAK HARBOR, O., July 24.—Investigation into the cause of the grade crossing accident here last night which took a death toll of 10 and injured 10 persons was under way here today.

Four railroad tracks cross the street at the point. A passenger train, eastbound from Toledo, was just pulling out from the station when William Spangler, 40, driver of the truck, halted for the train to pass. Witnesses say that as the last cars were crossing the street, Spangler started the truck, passing behind the eastbound train to be struck by a fast passenger train going west. Apparently he failed to see the westbound train. The train struck the truck squarely in the center.

For many years a watchman was maintained at the crossing but he was relieved last year with the installation of the electric signal system. The system was working, the red light moving to and fro, witnesses said, when the truck started to cross.

The list of dead: Mrs. Bern Cook, 40; Mrs. Mabel Hold, 38; Forest Croninger, 14; Cola Croninger, 10; Olga Pratt, 17; Milan Schaaf, 12; Hildon Huffman, 14; Elda Oida, 14; Geraldine Schmitz, 14; George Spangler, 30, driver of the truck. All but Spangler lived in Attica, O.

Occupants of the truck were members of a club on their annual outing.

The force of the collision carried the wreckage of the truck 300 feet down the railroad tracks, hurling bodies in every direction and scattering splintered wood and shattered metal. When the train was brought to a halt the pilot of the locomotive carried three bodies.

Shaver Plans to Use Radio Extensively in Campaign.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—There is going to be keen competition for radio rights during the presidential campaign.

Clem L. Shaver announced yesterday in behalf of the Democratic National Committee that he will inquire into the possibilities of so arranging the contemplated Western tour of John W. Davis as to reach a maximum audience by radio.

The Coolidge and La Follette managers also are hoping to turn the broadcasting privileges to their advantage. It is agreed that the old method of campaigning is over, with the frequent stops, and speeches made to a necessarily limited audience.

If the Davis-Bryan campaign can be so adjusted, it will take the candidates only to a relatively few big centers through the country, and the surrounding territory will be appealed to by radio.

It has been agreed, Shaver said, that use of the wireless would make it unnecessary to send a large battery of speakers through the country. This plan, he said, would permit Democratic orators of national reputation to reach practically all of the larger centers of population in person and the voters through the less populated sections by broadcasting.

It is not satisfactory, because instructed delegates do not always stand by their instructions, as we saw at the last Republican national convention. Moreover, it is indirect and complicated. Any change that brings the Government nearer to the people is a change for the better."

Senator La Follette, it will be recalled, was one of the irreconcilable opponents to the League of Nations covenant, and to the four-power treaty, as well. What did he regard as an ideal foreign policy for America?

"Briefly, to maintain relations of amity and good will with all nations of the world, attending strictly to our own business, and entering into no foreign alliances or entanglements. We shall have quite enough to do if we make our own country entirely safe for our own democracy. I would carry democracy to the rest of the world, not upon the point of the bayonet, but by furnishing the most perfect example of a Government of liberty and of equality of opportunity for every man, woman and child in these United States."

"The experience of our Government under more recent administrations"—his eyes flickered significantly—"admonish us to establish definite and fixed limitations upon the single-handed control by the chief executive over all our foreign relations. Presidents have again and again brought us to the verge of war, and have even forced us into wars in utter disregard of our organic law. It is too great a power to be exercised by one man."

"Exploiting Weak Neighbors." So, too, if we would stand as a just and righteous nation before the world, we must thwart the imperialistic schemes of our masters of finance. They have accumulated a vast surplus of capital by exploiting the people and the people's natural resources. They are now confronted with the alternative of loaning their surplus wealth to the American farmer, the merchant and the small enterprise, at falling interest rates; or of employing it abroad to exploit the natural resources of the weaker countries—China, Mexico and those of Central and South America, which are rich in minerals, coal, timber, oil and iron."

"Under the guise of 'protecting their investments,' they are already causing dictatorships to be set up over some of our small and helpless neighbors. If we would defend the precious heritage of our own sovereignty, we should never permit the armed forces of the United States to be used to despoil our sister republics of their property, interfere with their right to govern themselves according to their own—not our—standards, or violate the sovereignty which is as sacred to them as our sovereignty is to us."

The interview had lasted a long time; the Senator had patiently endeavored to answer every question that he considered timely and relevant. Would he, in conclusion, name what he regarded as the most serious evil in American Government, and state his remedy for it?

He pondered this long before answering—"not," he said, "because there is any doubt in my mind, but because I wonder if I shall not be misunderstood. Nevertheless, I'll do the best I can."

Democracy in Danger. "I have long been convinced that the one great fundamental evil which endangers the present and future of democracy in America grows out of the control, by a few men, of the country's natural resources. Title to these resources should be in the people. By that, I mean in the Government. These men should never have been permitted to acquire them, but they have. They must be recovered by the people."

"How?"

"NOT by confiscation, mark you. That would be fundamentally dangerous, and it is not the American idea of justice. There is only one way—we must buy them back. It must be done very slowly, ever so cautiously—a little here and a little there, so that the whole structure will not be imperiled. True, the cost would be enormous, but the period of purchase would be very long, and surely if we could afford to spend $24,000,000,000 in two years to win a war like the last one, we can spend the money necessary to assure the return to the people of our natural resources, the private ownership and control of which is the basis of private monopoly."

"With the national resources thus restored to the nation, there would be devised a system of leasing, whereby the coal, oil, steel, copper and other properties would be operated by private capital, but under terms and restrictions provided in every lease that would eliminate the evils which result from private monopoly—the logical outcome of outright private ownership—and from the loose system of Government leasing which now prevails. First, the Government could forbid the extravagantly wasteful methods of production which in some industries, notably coal and oil, now result in the downright waste of more than 40 per cent of the exploited wealth. Next, adequate safeguards could be maintained which would make impossible the development of such monstrous monopolies as Standard Oil and the Steel Trust. Profiteering and extortion would thus disappear as a natural consequence. Government price-fixing would be unnecessary. The power of the great corporations to gouge and swindle the public arises from their monopolistic control of natural resources, and their freedom to make combinations for that purpose. With that control gone, the power to extort would vanish. The people could lease their resources to whom they pleased, with the privilege of taking away from those who did not deal fairly with the people.

"Similarly, adequate compensation and decent treatment could be assured to the individuals employed in those industries.

"But by far the most commanding good to result from such a system would be the restoration of government to the people. It is this concentration of wealth in the hands of a few men that has enabled them to seize the machinery of government and manipulate it for their own purposes. Without this vast wealth they could not dominate through their agents, the conventions that nominate candidates for office, and they could not corrupt elections. Without the power that comes from possession of such wealth, they could not intimidate the legislators whom they did not already own; they could not dictate the appointment of administrative officials; they could not put their henchmen on the bench; they could not maintain the social, political and financial influences with which, at Washington, they reward their friends and punish the representatives of real public interest. Better still, they could not own or influence the press, through which they now are largely able to misinform and poison public opinion."

"In studying the various evils which are apparent, one gets inevitably back to that one underlying cause. Representative government in the United States has been undermined and its future existence imperiled because the few have been able to wrest the Government from the hands of the many, and use it still further to strengthen their power and enlarge their holdings. The process is menacing and terrible, because it is progressive. The more wealth that is thus concentrated the greater becomes the power of the owners to further enlarge it.

"That is why the number of home renters and tenant farmers increases constantly; that is why, while the value of owned property rises, the number of owners remains stationary or diminishes. This condition endangers the stability of government, a thousand times more than the propaganda of all the bolsheviks. Stability of government is founded on its home owners. You cannot have a free people based upon a shifting tenantry, subject to being thrown out on the street at the pleasure of overlords."

TYPHOID FEVER IN HAVANA

367 Cases Reported in 24 Hours; 50 Cases in Matanzas.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 24.—There were 367 cases of typhoid fever in Havana today. This number included eight new cases reported during the past 24 hours. Typhoid also has broken out in Matanzas where approximately 50 cases have been reported. Sanitary conditions there are reported bad owing to a shortage in the water supply.

The city water of Havana now is said to be free of typhoid germs, but the inoculation of residents of the city is being carried on by squads of physicians, who are going from house to house, carrying on their work. Typhoid has been prevalent here for the past month.

SHATTUCK VALET MAY GET
NEW TRIAL IN FRENCH COURTParis Trial Body Was Not Unanimous for Death Sentence,
But Stood 6 to 5.PARIS, July 24.—An effort to have Alphonse Gabriel Mourey from the gallows was initiated today
by Alfred R. Shattuck, New York lawyer, in whose home Mourey, after others, committed the robbery arm for which, with other charges, he was sentenced to death after having been found guilty by a jury here yesterday. Shattuckaddressed a petition to President Dumergue, asking him to com-

Mourey, the French bandit who figured in the robbery of the Washington Square, New York, home of Albert R. Shattuck, banker, in 1922, was sentenced to death here yesterday. The capital penalty was inflicted, not for the burglary charge, but for shooting at French detectives who arrested him at Gournay on the Marne.It is improbable, however, that Mourey will be guillotined, for he having signed an appeal for mercy.As a matter of fact there may be a retrial owing to an incident revealed by one of the jurors who replied that, although the jury'sverdict declaring Mourey guilty on all the counts was announced as unanimous, the body was in fact divided on the important question of whether the prisoner had actually shot the detectives when arrested. Six answered yes and six no.
Mourey's counsel announced he would ask an inquiry.Plane Enroute to St. Louis Dam-

BANKERS VETO ALLIED PROPOSAL FOR SANCTIONS ON REPARATIONS

Reject Plan Because It Does Not Prevent Separate Action Against Germany by France.

HERRIOT'S VAIN APPEAL TO BANKERS

Head of Bank of England Declares Confidence Is Shaken by Talk of German Default.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON, London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, July 24.—The bankers have checked the diplomats. The interallied conference on the Dawes plan is deadlocked because the Morgan firm and the Bank of England have vetoed the text of the protocol covering German defaults and sanctions, which was formally approved by the delegates of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, and informally blessed by the unofficial observer for the United States, Col. James A. Logan.

All attempts at compromise have failed and consequently the plenary session yesterday did not make any serious progress. The most important event was not the plenary session, but a secret dispute between the bankers and the statesmen.

Failure of Belgian Compromise. On the shoulders of Sir Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and Thomas W. Lamont, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., appears to rest the responsibility for the veto of Premier Herriot's formula—submitted to the New York World—and the Post-Dispatch.

This was Belgium's effort to produce a text that would convince the bankers that proper security exists for a loan to Germany without denying the French the right of freedom of action toward Germany or taking away the powers of the Reparation Commission. The Thaelens compromise failed because Sir Montagu and Lamont would have none of it.

In the most vital discussion, the leading parts were taken by Norman and Premier Herriot, and the banker's veto was based on the fact that the committee of experts, set up under the terms of the Thaelens compromise to advise the Reparation Commission, would be a consultative body without power to forbid French action.

Herriot's Appeal to Bankers. Herriot played his trump card after a solemn appeal to the bankers to trust France, resisted by Liberals and Democrats. If France should take sanctions against Germany other than those recommended by the international experts, but should bind herself in that event to pay the service of the German loan, would the bankers agree to float the loan?

The bankers replied in the negative and Premier Herriot, after further discussion, bitterly remarked that what seemed to be wanted were political, financial, guarantees from France, and that the Anglo-American group was ready to trust Germany, but not France.

Sir Montagu made two important statements during the discussion. The Reparation Commission, he said, is utterly discredited as a judicial body because of its political prejudices. He also asserted that great harm is being done by the insistence at this conference on the part of Germany to stress this contingency in this way, he said, must inevitably alarm prospective subscribers to any German loan.

was accurately issued to the press. Sir Cecil Hurst and M. Fromageot, British and French experts, were appointed to determine in effect what points in the Dawes report come inside and what come outside the Versailles treaty.

The questions of inviting the Germans here to discuss the terms, or of telling them to appear before the Reparation Commission and accept the plan handed to them, which represent, respectively, the British and French points of view—are thus turned over to two minor personages, who undoubtedly will disagree. The conference, in other words, has dodged this vital issue for the present.

Most of the lengthy communique is taken up with the report of Subcommittee No. 3, called the "optimist committee" because it is concerned primarily with what is to be done with the reparations when they are received.

Many Profound Optimism. While the position appears extremely serious, the chief actors in the drama, who are not French, profess optimism as to the outcome. I believe the pessimism in the French camp is genuine and that Herriot and his advisers feel convinced that to give up France's right to separate action under the French interpretation of the Versailles treaty or what is really the same issue in another form—to permit the Powers and the Reparations Commission to be dictated to in any circumstances by foreign interests that would destroy the present Franco-Belgian control of the commission, must place France in power in Paris.

"What is the good of our making concessions here which would destroy Herriot at home?" a French expert said to me.

He added that the conference is now doomed to fail either directly in London, or if the French yield here, then failure follows through the immediate repudiation of Herriot's bargain by the French Parliament.

On the other hand the British-American banking opinion is adamant that no loan can be floated without absolute security and that, after the Ruhr adventure, the British and American investing public will not trust France unless she agrees to abdicate the right to any isolated action against Germany in the future.

Marx May Be Forced To Dissolve Reichstag. By SAMUEL SFEWACK, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

BERLIN, July 24.—Chancellor Marx has decided to go himself if Germany is invited to the negotiations in London. The drift of political developments indicate he

GIRL DROWNED IN SIGHT OF MOTHER

Mrs. George Stohlman Vainly Tries to Save Daughter, 5, From Meramec at Delcke.

Merilynne Stohlman, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stohlman, 5747 McPherson avenue, slipped down a muddy bank into the Meramec River at Delcke, Mo., 25 miles from St. Louis, yesterday evening, and was drowned in sight of her mother, who risked her own life in a futile effort at rescue.

Mrs. Stohlman and the child have been staying at the Board Walk Club, across the river from Delcke. At about 5:30 o'clock Mrs. Stohlman was at the clubhouse and Merilynne and two other small children were playing on the river bank, three feet high and slippery from the partial recession of high water.

The child tried to reach something on the bank and slid down into the water. Mrs. Stohlman and two other women heard the screams of the other children and ran to the bank. Mrs. Stohlman, although unable to swim, threw herself into the water and tried to reach the child, who was being carried away from the bank by the swift and swollen current.

The wafer was eight feet deep and Mrs. Stohlman was in danger, but clung to a tethered canoe until men arrived and took her from the water.

Henry Perstrup, who was nearby, ran and jumped in from the deck and swam down stream after the child, still buoyed by the swift current, but caught in drift wood and could not reach her. She sank about 60 feet below the point where she fell in.

The body has not been found. The river is being dragged under the direction of Deputy Sheriff Slevin of Fenton. The difficulty is increased by the river still being above its normal stage, but it is rapidly receding and it is hoped that the body will be recovered at the rapids between Delcke and Cleone.

will be compelled to dissolve the Reichstag and call for a new one before he gets the situation of the body to any agreement reached at London.

The reactionary German Nationalists have adopted a seven-point platform on the London proceedings, which, if they maintain it, means they must vote against the Dawes report. In the platform the demand is incorporated that London make clear that Germany was not guilty of beginning the war.

The loss of the Reichstag is the one thing that the reactionaries hold fast to this plank there is no other way out except dissolution. It would take at least a month before the new Deputies could arrive at Berlin.

The laws making the report a reality, which have hitherto been kept a secret, were published yesterday by the communist paper Rote Fahne. An action for treason may be taken against it for revealing a state secret.

Powers of Rail Commissioner. The railroad law thus disclosed shows that the German experts went far to meet the requirements of the report. If the paragraph quoted by the Rote Fahne is correct it provides for a commission over the railroads, to be appointed by the senate, who would have the right to sell rolling stock when he deems it necessary, or to give concessions to run part of all of the system. The construction laws make the German railroads law-ridden security in the hands of the senate.

Until the laws come back from the Reparation Commission the Reichstag will not get up. The debate on foreign policy, however, begins tomorrow and it will then be possible to judge if it will be imperative to dissolve. If the reactionaries follow up their demands with speeches against the report, such action will be unavoidable. The press comment on the London conferences is still confused and confusing.

The Stines paper, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, the leading editorial in which Americans are pictured as merciless money changers.

"He who wants to invade an unarmed, helpless country can do so in God's name—but let him pay the interest on the Anglo-American loan," says the editorial. The bankers are getting their revenge for President Wilson's failures with the French, the writer continues.

This conception is that of the reactionary and industrialist organs. Only the democratic papers concede that America's interest is not confined to the money market.

INITIATIVE PETITIONS FOR STATE PENSIONS THROWN OUT

Secretary Becker Says Two Proposed Amendments Do Not Have Enough Signatures.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, July 24.—Secretary of State Becker today said the initiative petitions to place two proposed constitutional amendments placed on the ballot for the November election did not bear the required number of signatures in eleven congressional districts of Missouri, and would be thrown out. The amendments provide for old age and unemployment pensions.

The old age pension measure was thrown out after the petitions submitted after the Third and Seventh Districts were found inadequate. Petitions were filed from only 13 districts.

The petitions for the unemployment pension measure were filed from only 13 districts and were found insufficient in four or five of the districts, it was said.

Petitions, to be valid, must bear signatures of 5 per cent of the voters in two-thirds of the 16 congressional districts, the percentage to be based on the vote cast in these districts for the State officer receiving the highest number of votes at the last general elections.

James E. McGowan, who is interested in the two measures, particularly the unemployment proposal, and is said to have paid $10,000 toward the expense of circulating the petitions. The work was carried on by an organization formed by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which, however, sponsored only the old age proposal.

The proposed old age pension amendment would have required the State to pay a pension of $30 a month to indigent persons more than 65 years of age, who had resided in the State at least 10 years.

The unemployment amendment would have required the State to establish farms, industrial plants and workshops to furnish employment to unemployed persons more than 16 years of age, who had resided in the State at least 10 years.

INFLUENCE OF AMERICA IS GREATEST NOW, HALDANE TELLS VISITING LAWYERS

British Viscount Proposes Toast to Bar Association at Lord Mayor's Banquet—Blackstone Monument Unveiled.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 24.—Charles E. Hughes, the American Secretary of State, Ambassador Frank B. Kellogg and Sir James Atkin, Lord Justice of Appeal, were among the guests of honor at a banquet given at the Guild Hall last night for members of the American and Canadian Bar Associations. The Lord Mayor presided and welcomed the guests in behalf of the city corporation and proposed a toast to President Coolidge.

The Lord Mayor said they were greatly pleased that the occasion enabled them to pay a just tribute of respect and regard to a great citizen of the great country across the Atlantic, whose power and influence had never been greater than they were at this moment and whose friendship Great Britain was happily privileged to possess in an unstinted degree.

Viscount Haldane, Lord Chancellor, proposing the toast "The American Bar," said it was a happy invitation for the Lord Mayor, who invited their American visitors to a banquet, for not only did it do credit to a great international event, but it demonstrated the solidarity of three great peoples, all of whom ardently desired the peace of the world.

In response Secretary Hughes remarked that some of them might be regarded as discovering England, but in truth, they from America, were discovering themselves. They had found an unbroken unity—a sense of unity that will be lasting.

Monument of Blackstone Is Unveiled by G. W. Wickham. By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 24.—A statue of Blackstone was unveiled yesterday in the law courts to "remain for centuries to inspire England as Blackstone inspired America in law."

These were the words with which the British Lord Chancellor answered George W. Wickham, former Attorney-General of the United States, who, in unveiling the statue, which is the gift of the American bar, referred to Blackstone's commentaries as "the most permanent link between the English-speaking peoples and the greatest power behind the laws of the two countries."

Addressing the Lord Chancellor after the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack had been pulled from the statue, Wickham said:

"I ask that this monument may remain here as an assurance that both you and we shall look at things from the same standpoint."

Impressive Ceremony. The ceremony of unveiling was impressive and so great was the crowd of silk-hatted, frock-coated American lawyers who came to the law courts to attend the presentation that the force of English law along the Strand had to be strengthened in order to provide guides for the American visitors.

Judge Flint, president of the Columbus University law school alumni, presented a portrait of James Kent, the American law commentator, which was accepted by Lord Justice Sir Richard Atkin on behalf of the Council of Legal Education. After the ceremonies the lawyers were the guests of Lincoln's Inn, Gray's Inn and the University of London and in the evening they were the guests of the Lord Mayor.

A photograph of the Blackstone monument unveiled by former Attorney-General Wickham in London yesterday will be found on the Post-Dispatch Pictorial Page today.

SHIP LINE LOOTED OF $12,000,000, SAYS RECEIVER. Continued from Preceding Page. The former oil corporation, with the resulting financial wreck of the Ward line.

In carrying out their alleged conspiracy, Caffey charges that the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies directors falsified minutes books and defrauded the Government and the Ward line.

The complaint specifically refers to a dividend of $3,000,000 alleged to have been paid by the Ward line on Dec. 19, 1919, and turned over to the oil corporation.

In his prayer for relief, Caffey asks that the corporations and individuals participating in or benefiting from the alleged diversion of the Ward line funds be required to account and restore to the Ward line and its trustees and to the Cuban American Terminal Co. the monies improperly taken or diverted, together with damages to compensate them for losses suffered by reason of their being defrauded.

MISS FELICITE OGLESBY IS MARRIED TO ITALIAN COUNT

Daughter of Former Lieutenant-Governor of Illinois Bride of Cenci Bolognelli.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, July 24.—Miss Felicitas Oglesby, daughter of the late Lieutenant-Governor Richard J. Oglesby of Illinois, was married here
this morning to Count Alessandro Cenci Bolognelli of Rome. The religious ceremony took place in the private chapel of the famous Palazzo Cenci, renowned as the home of the ill-fated Beatrice Cenci, sixteenth century heroine.

Prince Vicovaro, head of the Cenci Bolognelli family, was one of the witnesses at the civil marriage performed this afternoon in the Capitoline Hall. American Ambassador Fletcher was the bride's witness.

The engagement of the couple,
announced last month, was the culmination of a romance that had its inception several years ago in Rome. The ceremony was performed by Mgr. Charles A. O'Hern, rector of the American College in Rome. There were many gifts, mostly jewelry, and including several from the Prince and Princess Vicovaro.

The bride wore a silver brocade dress with costly old lace, held by the train bearers, the son of Baron de Tommasi and the daughter of Prince Vicovaro. The bridegroom wore his war medals.

Besides Prince Vicovaro, the other witnesses were Gen. Petoli and Marquis Rocca-Giovine.
After the ceremony there was a bridal luncheon at the Palazzo Malvezzi, the home of the bride's mother. The guests included Mrs.
Gillette, the bride's aunt; Marchioness Della Chisa, niece of the late Pope Benedict; Count Ca-paseotore, Count Devittien, Count Casale, Baron de Tommasi and Marquis Macchi Cellere. The married couple, according to the Roman custom, visited St. Peter's, descended into the crypt and prayed at the tomb of the Apostle.

Later the couple departed for Perugia, where they will spend their honeymoon.

UNMANNED STEAM ROLLER ON RAMPAGE SMASHES AUTO

Giant Machine Puts Motorists to Flight in Its Dash Along County Roads.

An eight-ton steam roller, in us-at Skinker road and Rosemary lane, where street construction is in progress, seemingly weary of servitude, yesterday made a dash for liberty.

For several moments thereafter
it was the center of attention, lunging over curbing, smashing a Ford car that got in its way, and putting motorists to precipitous flight.

The roller, under full steam, had been standing in Rosemary lane, just west of Skinker. Workmen had left the throttle open, but had blocked the machine with a large rock under the roller. When the driver, not knowing the throttle was open, kicked out the rock preparatory to mounting, his ponderous charge dashed eastward for Skinker road. Over the curbing it went and across the parkway. In the center of Skinker, with the party of negro workmen in pursuit. Then, careening from the opposite curb, it started running in a circle, and the negroes took to their heels. Finally, after smashing the front wheel of a Ford car belonging to the Public Service Commission, it headed for Forest Park, but the incline was too steep so, with a subsiding snort, it turned on its side and gave up the effort.
Its pursuers hastened to draw the fire to prevent an explosion.

PROGRAM BROADCAST ON THREE WAVE LENGTHS AT SAME TIME

General Electric Station WGY Uses
One of 15.85 Meters, Said to Be Shortest on Record.

By the Associated Press.
SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 24.—
The General Electric Co.'s radio broadcasting station in this city, WGY, today broadcast its regular program on a wave length of 15.85 meters, said to be the shortest wave length ever used by any broadcasting station in this country. While the program was going out on this short wave it was also broadcast simultaneously on two other wave lengths and this is believed to be the first time that any station has sent the same program out on three distinct wave lengths at the same time.

The 15-meter wave length will continue to be used by WGY to demonstrate the greater advantage of the short waves. Particular attention will be given to the afternoon programs, as it is believed the short waves are more reliable, will improve daylight broadcasting and perhaps make radio signals constant 24 hours of the day. Under ordinary wave lengths programs from broadcast stations are heard much greater distances at night than during the daylight hours.

Under the new arrangement all programs from WGY will now be broadcast on 330 meters, either 60 or 107 meters and on 15.85 meters simultaneously.

Also When on Vacation.

M. L. Young, 49 years old, of 4444 Delmar boulevard, a section manager at the B. Nugent & Bro.
Dry Goods Co., died of apoplexy yesterday on the streets of Columbia, Mo., where he was visiting his mother on his vacation. He had been with Nugent's about a year,
coming here from Kansas City.
During the holiday season last year he was in charge of the toy department. The funeral will be held at Columbia, the former home.

Fire Destroys Exposition Building.

Post-Dispatch Supremacy in Department Store Advertising

The long established supremacy of the Post-Dispatch in Department Store Advertising was more pronounced in 1923 than in previous years. Comparing the Post-Dispatch with the only other St. Louis seven-day newspaper—the following facts are disclosed:

In 1922 the Post-Dispatch carried 4,094,793 lines of Department Store Advertising, which was 2,167,296 lines MORE than was carried by the only other seven-day newspaper.

In 1923 the Post-Dispatch carried 5,348,839 lines of Department Store Advertising—a gain of more than a million-and-a-quarter lines over the previous year. This was 3,152,279 lines more than the only other seven-day newspaper carried—an increase in the lead of the Post-Dispatch of nearly a million lines.

During the first six months of 1924 the Post-Dispatch carried 2,808,496 lines of Department Store Advertising which was 1,766,612 lines more than the only other seven-day newspaper. Compared with the first six months of 1923 the Post-Dispatch gained 166,622 lines of Department Store Advertising or over 1400% more than the gain of the other seven-day newspaper. Results—alone—govern the placing of advertising by St. Louis department stores.

Circulation Supremacy Makes Advertising Profitable and the Continued Concentration of Advertising in ONE Newspaper Proves that Newspaper's Circulation Supremacy.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

For years the Post-Dispatch — Daily and Sunday — has carried far more Advertising than any other St. Louis newspaper, often more than all three others COMBINED

Mr. J. M. Beardslee was a very bad case, with unusual complications. He is now sound and well. Mr. Beardslee lived at Moberly, Mo., when he came to me; he now lives at Steelville, Mo., and is a traveling salesman for a St. Louis wholesale hardware house, a position utterly impossible for him to have held while sick.

Mr. Beardslee sent his cousin, Mr. C. D. M. Gupst, Mayor of Moberly,

TWO HELD FOR FIRE IN WHICH 15 PERISHED

Warrants Charging Arson
and Manslaughter Issued Against Owner and Tenant of Building.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, July 24.—Louis Goldstein, owner of the two-story apartment building that was razed by a fire and explosion in which 15 lives were lost Thursday morning, and Joe Lascuola, a recent renter from Goldstein, were charged in warrants served yesterday with arson in the first degree and manslaughter.

Both pleaded not guilty. Bonds were fixed at $15,000 each on the arson charge, and $10,000 each on the manslaughter charge. The men failed to give bond and were sent to jail. Preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 4.

The filing of charges against the two men came while they were on the witness stand before the coroner's jury. They were questioned closely about the discovery of 25 10-gallon gasoline cans in the ruins. Lascuola told of buying 30 cans like those found in the debris. He said, however, they were not taken to the apartment building. He further testified that he leased one of the store rooms in the building from Goldstein. It was brought out that Lascuola had not moved into the store room, which he leased July 7. He said he had planned to move in later.

The coroner's verdict, which followed issuance of the warrants, recommended that the prosecutor further investigate the facts and place them before the grand jury. The jury also said:

"The present building code does not insure safety. We recommend a new code prohibiting a building of this type, which had congested living quarters over store rooms. We also recommend a more rigid inspection of buildings, a stricter construction requirements."

Robber Robbed of $12.
Thomas Carroll, 49 years old, a huckster of 3533 Vista avenue, on his way to market early today reported a man boarded his wagon near Compton and Park avenues, held him up and took $12 from his pockets. He said the robber struck him in the jaw and knocked him from the wagon. Carroll was bruised in the fall. The robber escaped.

Office Fixtures Stolen.
Burglars in a building at 2827 Benton street early yesterday robbed the offices of the Day-Dark Specialty Co. and the Advertising Novelty Co., taking check-protecting machines, a typewriter, fans, etc., all valued at about $400.

CHAPTER EIGHTY-THREE

Suddenly something very precious died within her dimly. The excitement of the night dwindled and departed; the piquancy of her adventure drooped and faded; her interest in a situation that had up to that minute stirred pulse and imagination, shriveled and evaporated. She was weary and bored; she felt disgusted and sick; she wanted to be quit of the whole affair, of smiling, alert, complacent Ruthie, of the homely, clumsy children, of this sleek, fat, selfish man beside her! . . . Ah, she had been a fool ever to think . . . ever to imagine . . . A woman of her position, sensible, capable, independent, —stout, settled, middle-aged and gray! . . . Oh, it was detestable, —it was humiliating—insufferable!

They were at the hotel.

"You don't want to let what I told you bother you, Jan. I never stopped to think how you'd feel about it. And you want to remember that those things never get out; they're all kept strictly Q. T. It happened six or seven years ago and there isn't a soul—Here, I'm coming in with you."

"You needn't bother, Martin."

"That's all right. I'll see you inside."

They moved through the revolving glass doors and mounted the steps into the brilliant lobby.

"Well, it's been great to see you, and I surely have enjoyed talking over old times. By God, it's been a great evening."

"Yes, indeed. It's been very amusing."

"I'm awfully glad you looked me up. . . . And say, Jan, you like Ruthie, don't you? Don't you think she's a nice little woman? Not your style exactly—no side, or anything like that—but she's a damned agreeable little person, hey? . . . You're not sore at me now, are you, for that rotten trick I played on you? I'd never have done it if it had been up to me. It was the lawyers, you know. They dug up the story and put it over. I'd never have done it—I swear to God, Jan, I wouldn't! I'm—I'm sorry as the devil, now; by God, I am!"

"Let's not talk about it, Martin; it's all past and forgotten."

"Well, that's damned white of you, Jan—damned white! I always said you were a sensible woman."

Jeannette turned and held out her hand.

"Aw, say," Martin protested, "aren't you going in to the cafe with me and have some ginger ale or something? I hate to say good-night so soon. There's a lot of things I want to ask you. I'd like to keep this evening going forever."

But Jeannette's one desire was to end it. She wanted her room, to have the door shut and locked behind her, to be alone.

"I'm sorry, Martin."

"Just a small glass of ginger ale?" he pleaded.

"Thank you, no, Martin; I think I'd better go up."

"Well, am I not to see you again? You're not going until Sunday, are you?"

"I shall be busy tomorrow; I'm engaged all day."

"How about tomorrow night?"

"I'm not free then either."

A frown settled on the man's face.

"Damn it . . ." he began disgustedly. She continued to smile pleasantly but offered no suggestion.

"Well, I'll see you in New York some time soon," he asserted finally. "I have to go up there once in awhile."

"Yes, do that," Jeannette said without enthusiasm.

"I'll phone you? I'll give you a ring at the office."

"Yes, do that," she repeated.

"Well, then, I guess I'd better say good night."

"Good night, Martin."

She turned toward the elevators, giving him a nod and a brief smile over her shoulder. As the gate of the cage slid shut, she caught another glimpse of him, standing where she had left him, perplexed, frowning, disconsolate—staring after her.

The train was crowded. Jeannette had chosen one at midday, thinking to have her lunch in the dining car and so beguile away part of the tedium of the trip. It was Saturday; she had decided to return home at once rather than wait until Sunday; there was nothing to hold her in Philadelphia and she was anxious to get back to the little apartment in Waverly place. Many other travelers had apparently conceived the same idea of having the noon meal on the way, and Jeannette discovered there were no seats left in the chair-car, so she was obliged to share one in a day coach with a short, plump lady with a prominent bust and short fat arms who sat up very straight beside her and wheezed audibly at every breath. Jeannette's heavy suit case was stowed in front of her, and pressed uncomfortably against her knees, while there was no place for her hat box except in the aisle where it was stumbled over and cursed by every passing passenger. There were clinders embedded in the plush covering of the seat, the car was badly ventilated and smelled of warm, crowded humanity. At Trenton, feeling dirty and disheveled, she made a swaying progress toward the dining car only to find 20 people ahead of her. Disheartened, she returned to her seat, concluding to wait until she reached the city before she lunched. Perhaps she would go directly home and persuade Beatrice to make her some tea and toast.

The day was leaden, the country forlorn and dreary; the trees stood bare and black upon bare and blackened ground; the houses seemed cold, desolate and grimy. It began to rain as the train slowed down through smoky Newark, and long diagonal streaks of water slashed the dirty window-panes. Waiting travelers on platforms huddled under station sheds or bent their heads and umbrellas against the sharp wind and driving drops as they struggled toward the cars. The train grew steadily more crowded; people stood in the aisle, swayed and were pitched against those in the seats. Jeannette's head began to ache dully and at every knock or kick her offending hat box received the wince as though struck. In the tube beneath the Hudson River, the train came to a standstill and there was a long wait; women grew nervous, and a man said in a loud, laughing voice to a neighbor:

"Say, Bill, it'd be some pickings, all right, if the river came in on us while we're stuck here."

"Oh, Jesus, Mary!" gasped the woman next to Jeannette, and for some minutes the wheeze of her breathing rose to a higher key.

Finally, with much whirling, jerking and dancing of lights, the train rolled into the Pennsylvania Station.

"I'll go home and get into bed, and Beatrice will bring me some tea and toast," Jeannette whispered to herself, cramped and weary, fighting the pain in her head that grew steadily worse. She stumbled into a taxicab and went bumping and racketing down Seventh Avenue. The rain was now coming down in a forest of lances, and was driven in through the three-inch opening at the top of one of the windows. Jeannette tried to close it; her attempt was pitiful. The taxi skidded violently into Eighth Street and she was thrown to her knees, her hat jammed against the opposite side of the car.

"That's all right, lady; nothin' happened!" yelled the driver.

"In five minutes!" breathed Jeannette, one hand pressed hard against her breast.

Ah, here she was! Here she was, at last! Her fingers shook as she fumbled with the key to the street door.

"Thank you, so much," she said to the taxi driver who brought her bags up to the landing. She handed him his fare. "Keep the change; I can manage the rest."

LINEN SPORTS FROCKS

For the Thrifty Girl

ILLUSTRATIONS BY ALICE BAILEY.

Pleated skirt, with uneven waistline.

By ANNE VAN BUREN BROWN.

THE simple linen sports frock is such a universally smart, becoming and practical garment that it is found in the wardrobe of almost every woman who spends a part of her summer in the country. Since one is limited in one's choice of style and trimming, it may become somewhat of a problem for the woman who demands originality and smartness in every costume she wears, because of the rule of simplicity and restraint that must be followed these days.

One's choice of color is very wide, as any and all of the soft pastel shades come in butcher's linen, in the uncrushable sort or in the very fine handkerchief variety. In trimmings one is limited to buttons, applique pleats or pipings, while the ubiquitous monogram may appear in a dozen ways.

Frocks of this sort may be purchased at any well-thought-of shop, and will range in price from $18 to $35. They are apt, however, to be a bit stereotyped. The clever woman will arrange to have this type of frock made at home by a sewing woman who comes by the day, and who will work successfully at from $6 to $8 a day. She will take about two days to make a summer frock, which will fit satisfactorily and possess that touch of difference in demand by the well-dressed woman.

The first model sketched has an attractively pleated skirt, each pleat being clipped at the top to form an uneven waistline. This line is repeated in the patch pocket. The collar and tie, as well as the banding on the sleeves, are of white linen. One of the pleats may be left open at the top to form an extra pocket, and may be accentuated with a brilliant kerchief. We suggest having the pleating done at a pleating establishment to save labor, and if a sewing woman has assistance on hands and finishing the time allotted to her may be cut in half.

Follow the latter plan, and the cost of this frock should be:

One day of sewing woman's time, at $8 a day . . . $8 00
Four yards of butcher's linen, at $1 a yard . . . 4 00
Half a yard of white linen for trimming, at $1 a yard . . . 50
Pleating linen for skirt . . . 1 25
For the second frock we suggest

Nile green uncrushable linen with a belt of red leather, buttons of the same shade of red, side-buttoned sections faced back in red linen of matching shade. This straight little frock with its round neckline, diminutive sleeves, and touch of gay color, is particularly charming and easy to wear. The cost will be slight, figuring on:

One day's labor, at $8 a day . . . $8 00
Three yards of green linen (uncrushable) at $1.25 a yard . . . 3 75
Half a yard of red linen, at $1.25 a yard . . . 62
One dozen red ball buttons, at 25 cents a dozen . . . 25
$12 62

The third frock is for the very young woman who prefers the normal waistline. We suggest some original color scheme, such as flesh pink with binding of cerise or powder blue linen. This straight little frock has a V neckline and banding at the sleeves, bodice, cuffs and front closing of contrasting linen. A string belt and a square patch pocket outlined in the same finish it. The fastening is accomplished by a large pearl button at the base of the neckline and at the waist.

Straight little frock for very young woman.

Counting dressmaker's time as figured above:

Labor . . . $8 00
Three yards of handkerchief linen, at $1.50 a yard . . . 4 50
Three-quarters of a yard of contrasting linen, at $1.50 a yard . . . 1 14
Two pearl buttons, at 5 cents a piece . . . 10
$13 74

Summer Comforts For Every Baby At Home or Away

By WANDA BARTON

THE comfort of the baby during the warm weather is always a weighty consideration—how it may be kept cool, comfy and properly fed, how its nap may remain undisturbed, the best bathing arrangements and the right amount of open air at the right time. This of course, applies more strictly to the baby that must remain in the city.

The suburban or country baby lives under entirely different conditions and is reared and cared for much after the fashion of the choice plants of the garden. It has fresh air, sunlight and shade as needed, and just the simplest and most perfect food which is usually right at hand.

Baby should be dressed lightly and coolly. One wise mother with a brood of prize winners puts her babies into little Chinese silk rompers and sandals—that is all—and healthier youngsters would be hard to find. A warm, sudsy bath and rinse in the morning, and a tepid sponge off at night solves the bath problem. Plenty of sleep, the right food and staying outdoors from early morning till 12, indoors during the heated two or three hours, then outdoors again until bedtime, is her plan. The children nap during the heated part of the day and so are kept quiet and cool. Doing away with all flannels seems to harden the flesh and they do not take cold as do children who are more clothed. The use of one garment certainly makes the clothing problem less complicated and laundering an inappreciable factor in household arrangements. Silk is the only material that does not get cold or clammy, and that is why it is chosen for the one garment worn.

The packing of baby's clothes for the vacation trip is usually quite a problem. However, a deep straw telescope suitcase solves this wonderfully, as it makes an excellent trunk for baby. The top tray is partitioned so that one part of it may be used for the baby basket and the other part for small belongings, while the under part holds an amount of clothes that is quite unbelievable. A tiny attache hat or lunnet box for baby has a linen slipcover for traveling to protect its daintiness.

The rubber ring, chamber and folding wash-bowl, not forgetting the waterless, hot-water bottle, are all comforts that may be easily packed. Another astonishing comfort for baby is a rubber sleeping bag to use when the weather is bad and baby is obliged to go out in it. The bag is home-made. One mother has made hers of three rubber-lined aprons, one under the apron that is over the top and the third joined on to form the wide hood. Baby, all dressed, is slipped into this bag, and independent of the protection of an umbrella, travels as dry and warm as toast.

Celery Sticks.

Take tender white celery, wash and crisp it, in cold water. Drain and dry. Fill the groove in each, with a mixture of cream cheese, chopped walnut meats, minced green pepper, cream to soften, and salt and red pepper to season. Smooth the edges, and cut the sticks into inch lengths. Arrange on lettuce and serve with French dressing.

The proportions are six large stalks of celery, two tablespoons chopped walnuts, two tablespoons minced green pepper, one teaspoon of cream and one small cream cheese.

MEDITATIONS MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN LAND

MISUNDERSTOOD.

Before marriage a man is a deep, dark, fascinating mystery. After marriage he is merely a "misunderstood man."

A misunderstood man is one who can't see from his own point of view. He is suffering from a lack of vision, or, by his nervousness, that he has had a row with the world.

A misunderstood man is one who can't tell from the facts that he is in a depressed over-mental state—and doesn't know it. He is in danger of losing his job when he complains of being tired.

A misunderstood man is one who will insist on doing things his way, and who is trying to figure out what his stenographer has done with his buttonhole.

A misunderstood man is one who laughs heartily at the children's pranks, when he is at home and wants to be left alone.

A misunderstood man is one who goes to his room, when he should have found some air the vacuum-cleaner.

A misunderstood man is one who is suffering from a cold, and who is coughing too much, and from whom it is time to go home.

A misunderstood man is one who has fish for dinner, and who is still dreaming over the party said good-night.

A misunderstood man is one who shows him her latest expensive import at dinner the contract.

A misunderstood man, whose wife fails to do his thoughts and sense his taste, chews his celery, and makes his shoes black.

A misunderstood man is one who is really "understood."

And yet, if any man ever tried to break his heart, it would break his heart.

FASHION FRILLS

NEW YORK, July 24.

TIMES have changed since the extemporaneous quartets leaned against the mahogany and tortured the popular song which began "Round her neck she wore a yellow ribbon." Nothing so simple as a yellow ribbon obtains in fashions in these days. Siberian wastes, sub-tropical sands and the depths of the sea now are ravaged for neck adornments.

The poor abused ostrich is furnishing the majority of the present-day neck ornaments. The newest of these have been on the proportions of the Elizabethan ruff. This has been turned into a ruche fully six inches wide, of alternate rings of black and white ostrich plumes closely curled into rolls and fastened with a broad black ribbon. A corresponding but smaller ruche trims the small black panne hat worn with this odd adornment.

A large cape lined hat, designed for garden party wear, fringed with black and white bird, dictated the design of a black and white neck piece of curled vulture feathers. Another black and white cloche is worn in combination with a broad scarf of black satin ribbon pleated with insets of white satin where it passes around the neck and shoulders.

The influence of the hat again is seen in a model originated by one of the Great French milliners, which starts with a large shape raffia hat, bordered and trimmed in tortoise shell velvet, and ends with a wide voluminous scarf of mouseline de soie of the same tone which is laced across with velvet bands of a darker hue.

Ostrich boas are becoming popular, the feathers being loosely curled and dyed in shades ranging from a teal duck blue to the golden brown of the pheasant's plumage.

In the fur, fox is by all odds the favorite of the moment and the scarfs of that fur are both large and heavy. Hair seal with a trimming of monkey fur also is being extensively used as a trimming as well as for neck pieces, while white dyed coney and ermine offer irresistible inducements to many women.

One or two bathing suits of ermine have made their appearance on the English beaches but because of their cost have been regarded in the light of advertisements for movie stars or the appropriate habiliments of the "gold diggers" of the Northern climes.

As to bathing suits French resorts have stood sponsor for models little likely to make their appearance—more than once—on American beaches. These are backless, the trunks being sustained in the rear by bands of material crossed suspender-wise over the shoulders. From the front the effect is thoroughly modest and enveloping. But the back is a skin game. Wearing one adds authority to the old maxim "never, run from a policeman."

All Is Not Gold

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

SOPIE IRENE LOEB

ALL is not gold that glitters. For oftentimes when you scratch the surface there is nothing but dross. All is not silk that shines. For behind the misty gown there is many a hardened heart.

All is not laughter that smiles. For beneath there is often a broken heart and a sorrowful life.

All is not good that is pious. For it has happened that a pillar of a church has proved a king of thieves.

All is not innocent that looks at you through great blue baby orbs. For they may hide the queen of sirens whose lures mean disaster.

All is not charitable that bestows. For back of it may be the desire to shine as giver.

And not care for the deed itself. All is not sweet that is sugared; it may cover a bitter pill. All is not kind that acts benevolently. For it may be a means to win confidence and belief. Before you put your trust Give time a chance to decide Whether the outer appearance Reflects the inner meaning. This is a law unto itself.

Beauty and Health

By DR. LILLIAN WHITNEY.

I WANT to impress upon all my readers the importance of retaining a youthful spirit. If you allow life's burdens to weigh you down, you will soon lose your elastic step, your cheerful outlook, your brightness and light. In short, you will become middle-aged, with all that means: a heavy figure, dull eyes, a drab skin, hair that has lost its color and sheen, a fretful, peevish manner. Or you may even develop into a common scold, a shrew.

If you want to retain a youthful outlook on life you must not worry. All physicians agree that it is worry, not work, that kills. Work keeps your interest alive, whereas worry is fatal, not alone to beauty, but to health.

Nothing, absolutely nothing, ages a woman so rapidly as worry, and so fatally as worry. And yet so many of you worry over every little happening, however trivial! Everything everyone else does is wrong; nothing is ever done to your satisfaction.

Watch yourself in these moods. Go to a mirror and mimic yourself in your petulant, fault-finding humors. How astonished, how horrified you will be to see yourself, not only as others see you, but as you streak your forehead, and pucker your eyebrows, and draw your eyes together, examining the corners with hundreds of fine wrinkles, and as you press your lips together in ugly, hard lines.

So many girls to whom a kind fate gave beautiful features mar these with a worrisome disposition. Constant fretting and fault-finding will gradually sap your youth, your vitality, your beauty.

If you are one of these strive in every possible way to curb the tendency. Allow nothing to mar the serenity of your outlook on life. Be convinced by those who have gone through many bitter experiences that nothing is gained and everything is lost by worrying.

Study yourself anew in your mirror. See how wonderfully your eyes light up when you smile! Laugh. Note the gleam of your teeth, the upward curve of your mouth.

Isn't it attractive? Laugh! The bound is like tinkling bells, or, if you have a contralto voice, like the fascinating throaty warble of a thrush. Try laughing the next time something happens to annoy you, say, for instance, if someone accidentally breaks your favorite bit of china, or ink is spilled on your best rug, or hubby tells you he has lost his job.

Are you going to worry or scold? Curb yourself, and reflect that it will only react upon yourself. It will do no good. You will make yourself and everyone else more comfortable if you display a beautiful optimistic spirit, and incidentally while others lose their charms, yours will develop with age.

Beefsteak Pie.

Take one pound of beefsteak (round) and cut into strips two inches long. Dip in pepper and salt and flour and roll up. Put into a deep dish (don't pack too close together). Add four lamb kidneys, skinned, and cut into small pieces, 1 tablespoon catsup and enough stock or water to nearly fill the dish. Cover with rich pie crust and make holes at each end to let out steam. Bake in a moderate oven till nicely browned (about two hours).

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Chop It Up.

Don't lose your patience over powdered sugar that has hardened. Just run it through the food chopper.

Save the Bags.

When your garments are returned from the cleaner in large bags, save the bags. They are certain to come in handy when you want to store articles.

Egg Tests.

A good egg will sink in water. A good boiled egg will adhere to the shell and prove difficult to separate. The shell of a fresh egg has a slightly rough appearance, while that of a stale egg is glassy and smooth. When the boiled egg is done and the shell dries quickly on removal from the water you can know it is fresh.

Hand Drawn Work.

When trimming the linen frock with hand-drawn work, the threads that are drawn and cut at one end are used to hem that edge without detaching the last pulled thread at one end. The drawn thread will not last the entire length of the drawn work, but to use it as far as it will go will fasten it firmly and neatly. Then continue with another of the pulled threads.

Three Minute Journeys

WHERE TRAVELERS CARRY THEIR OWN TEA POTS

ALL time is tea time in Russia. England has a nationally observed tea hour from 4 to 5 in the afternoon when everyone, from the little salesgirl in a department store to the fashionable lady in her drawing room, stops to sip a cup of tea. But Russians refuse to follow the English example—they cannot confine their tea-drinking to any set hour.

The literal translation of the word "samovar" is "self-boiler." And in Russia samovars do, indeed, seem to be self-boilers, for they are forever boiling! It matters little whether you visit a lowly peasant or an aristocrat—that is, an ex-aristocrat—the fire under the samovar will be lit from morning until night. And the tea served you will always be steaming hot.

In some parts of the country, the people carry their fondness for tea to such an extreme that they take their tea pots along with them when traveling. It's considered a necessary part of their baggage. In other words, it might well be said that when Russians "pack up" their "troubles" they are always sure to include a miniature samovar to evaporate their worries—perhaps? The railways have made provision for this national custom. They have placed in each railway station a hot-water fountain to provide their passengers with a necessary ingredient of the fragrant infusion.

Farmer Brown's Boy Is Astonished

A mother's love will stop at naught, Though every step be danger fraught.

She crossed the yard as fast as she could.

LONG before any of the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows had even guessed that Happy Jack Squirrel and Mrs. Happy Jack had a secret in their home in the big maple tree up by Farmer Brown's house, Farmer Brown's Boy had guessed it. He had guessed what it was.

"They have a family in there," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "There are baby Squirrels in that hollow branch. That is why Mrs. Happy Jack comes out only long enough to get her meals and take a little exercise." You see Farmer Brown's Boy had kept watch and had noticed that he seldom saw Mrs. Happy Jack, while Happy Jack himself was about most of the time.

Now, of course, Farmer Brown's Boy was anxious to see those baby Squirrels. But he didn't try to see them in their home. He knew just how Mrs. Happy Jack felt and not for the world would he have frightened her by climbing up there and trying to see those babies. So he contented himself with keeping a sharp watch whenever he was about where he could see that tree. He hoped to see those baby Squirrels when they first came out to get a peep at the Great World.

Every morning the first thing he did when he came out of the house was to look up at that hollow branch. So it happened that early one morning he discovered Mrs. Happy Jack coming down out of that tree. She was carrying something in her mouth. What it was he couldn't make out at first. He moved very quietly so as to get a better view. Then he saw that Mrs. Happy Jack was carrying one of her own babies!

She looked anxiously this way and that way. It was plainly to be seen that she was worried. She crossed the yard as fast as she could to the old stone wall along the edge of the Old Orchard. Along this she hurried, carrying that precious baby in much the same way that you have seen a mother cat carry a kitten. Farmer Brown's Boy followed. He took care not to let her know that he was following. He saw her enter the Green Forest. He got there just in time to see her climb a tree and disappear in a hole in the trunk part way up.

Farmer Brown's Boy hid and waited. Mrs. Happy Jack was inside that tree only a few minutes. Then she came out, and this time she didn't have the baby in her mouth. She ran down the trunk, over to the old stone wall and disappeared in the direction of her home. And how she did run! She seemed to be in a great hurry. Farmer Brown's Boy didn't know whether to go back or to remain where he was. He decided to remain. In a little while he heard the rustle of small feet. Then he saw Mrs. Happy Jack coming. She had another baby in her mouth. This one she left in that tree, and hurried back as before.

Farmer Brown's Boy was puzzled. He showed it in his face. He showed it by the way he rubbed the tip of his nose. "She's moving her family," he muttered. "I wonder what for."

Cut rye bread into dainty slices, about the size and thickness of slices of white bread. Toast and butter slightly. Wrap in a napkin to keep hot and serve with generous slices of Phenix Pimiento Club Cheese.

Luncheon Delight

Cut generous squares of your favorite Phenix Club Cheese—creamy American for the true old-time flavor, cool Pimiento or Brick for soft mildness, and the sharp, salty tang of Swiss for the veteran cheese eater. Serve with fresh, crisp brown doughnuts and cool rich milk or steaming coffee.

Now there is a new kind of cheese that makes doughnuts and cheese even more delicious than it used to be.

Phenix Club Cheese is the new kind of loaf cheese—richer and creamier. Melting in a new way, undreamt of by earlier cheesemakers, that gives American, Pimiento, Swiss and Brick Cheese a creamy deliciousness it has never been possible to have in these cheeses before.

Tender and firm, it cuts into appetizing squares all ready to serve. It makes simple lunches like this old favorite hearty enough for eager appetites. Serve it, too, for the family meal.

THE CARDS' NEW HOME

O H. Bonnie Annie Laurie, I've got some news for you. The Cards have bought a quarry. Where early fa's the dew. From it they can't be moved. By trickery or intrigue, And it's better than the cellar Of any darn old league.

It's centrally located One block from Easy street. Its length and width are ample. Its depth one-hundred feet. And in their future home The pennant they will win; It's a dandy little quarry— If you're out that way drop in.

SIDE ISSUE

St. Louis will elect a Sheriff next November. Incidentally a President of the United States will be elected at the same time.

The Sheriff of St. Louis doesn't ride a horse, doesn't wear a star, a broad-brimmed Stetson or spurs and probably wouldn't know what to do with a gun if he had one. Yet the job is much sought after. There must be something in it besides glory.

Even the Town Constable of St. Louis never put a man in the calaboose in his life. All he does is swoop down on box offices and collect bills for bill posters.

Still the Sheriff and Constable play their parts in the criminal complex. The Sheriff gets men for the jury and the Constable gets them off if the committeeman is too busy.

HOT DAWG!
Then we have a City Marshal.

Does he ever catch a thief? No, his business is to catch dogs. And he doesn't do that personally.

It's a good thing for the City Marshal that no license is required for cats. He would lead a dog's life chasing cats.

And why shouldn't cats be licensed as well as dogs or dogs go unlicensed as well as cats? I dunno.

We have never heard, nor do we believe, that the psychological effect of a license attached to a dog's collar will keep the dog from biting anyone. On the contrary, he seems to think that it gives him a license to take a piece out of your leg when so inclined.

DON'T BLAME HIM

Some dogs go mad in summer, some get slightly peeved, while others accept the situation with philosophical indifference. But the one sure way to make a dog mad is to muzzle him.

Campaigning on a national scale is something new to Clem Shaver. However, when weighed in the balance, Clem will probably not be found wanting.

United States won the Olympic tennis and swimming championships. Land or water, it's all the same to us.

It turned out that Black Gold wasn't the only dark horse in the Raceland Derby.

After the Cards had taken six straight punches out of their meal ticket, there wasn't a Boston bean left to tell the tale.

The purchase of a quarry by the Cardinals indicates that they intend to leave no stone unturned in their endeavor to come trooping in with the bacon.

STRAIGHTENING OUT A SLIGHT ERROR

MAURICE BARRYMORE was famous, among other things, for his wit. At repartees he had no superiors and very few equals in or out of the profession. Once upon a time he scored on another well-known actor without speaking a word, and yet theatrical circles rocked with laughter for weeks afterwards.

Artistically speaking, this other actor was not highly regarded by Barrymore. He belonged to the old school of ranting scenery-eaters for whom Barrymore had a profound contempt. Nevertheless his merits were valued by at least one individual—his manager.

The latter was putting on a classic play, with a really distinguished supporting company and with Barrymore's pet aversion, whom for convenience we will call James Walker, as the featured member. On the day when the bills went up for the forthcoming production Barrymore chanced to pass the Broadway Theater, where the piece was to be played. In the lobby entrance was hung a large poster. Following as it did, the usual form, which read as follows:

MR. HENRY BLANK

Announces a

Revival of

"The Rivals."

With the following notable

Cast:

Mr. John Doe.....Mr. Richard Roe
Mrs. Jane Doe.....Mrs. Mary Roe
Miss Olive Doe.....Mr. Jacob Stow
Miss This One.....Mr. That One
Mr. Dash.....Miss Space

and

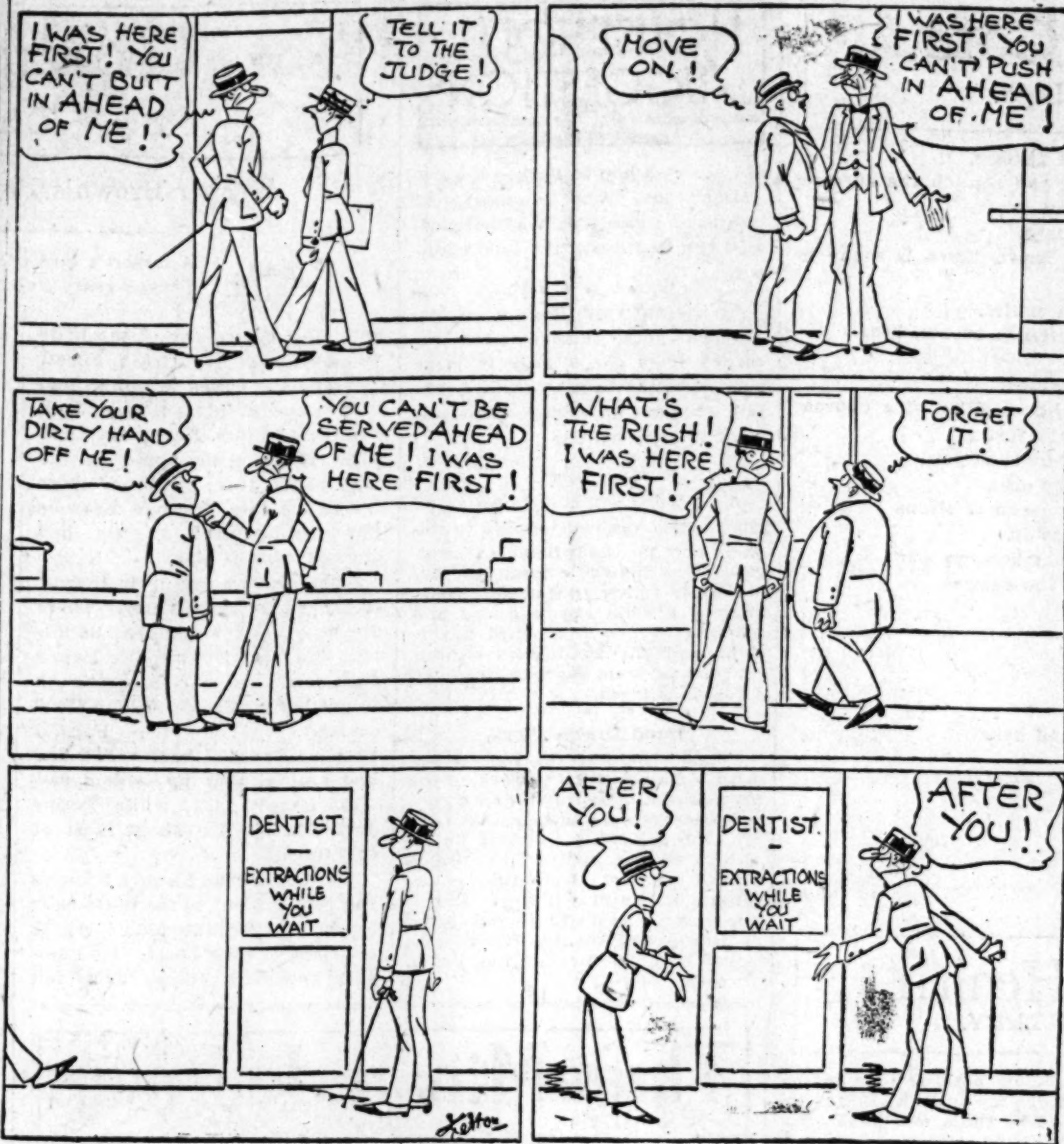

MR. JAMES WALKER

Barrymore read the announcement through. Then he walked to the corner, entered a hardware store, purchased an extra large carpenter's pencil and returning to the theater he made a change in the wording.

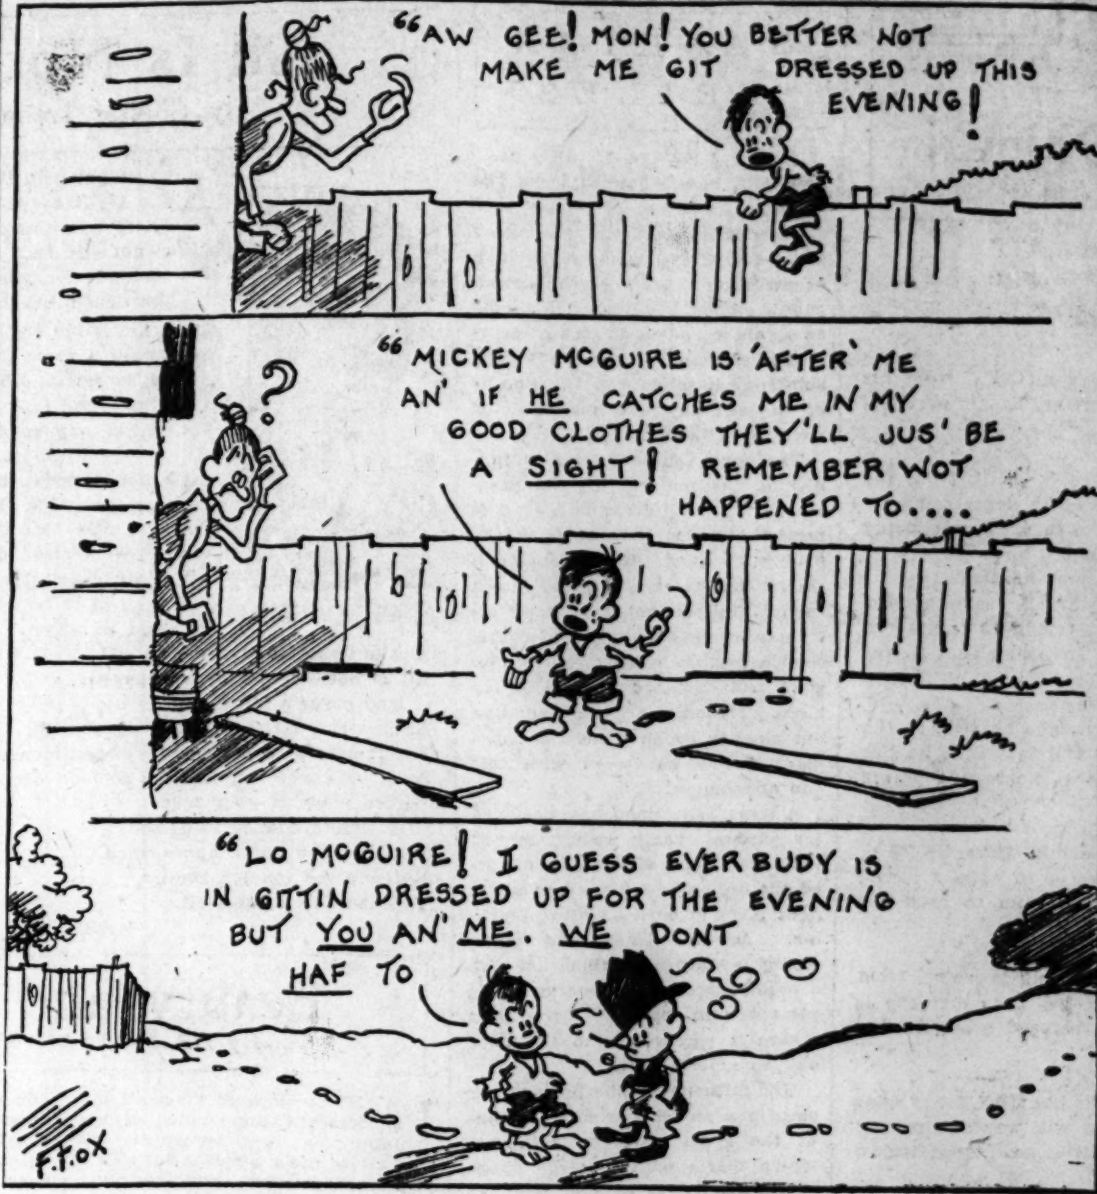

He crossed out the "AND" and for it substituted "BUT."
